DOAK ANSWERS CRITICISM ON ALIEN SYSTEM

Abuses in Deportations Being Corrected, Secretary of Labor Says

Washington — (AP) — Charges of tyrannic and unconstitutional practices in the deportation of aliens, laid at the door of federal immigration officials by the Wickersham commission, today drew from Secretary Doak the reply that abuses were being corrected.

The secretary of labor dissented, however, from some of the suggestions of the commission's tenth report to President Hoover. He asserted they came "from an observer without experience in the practical problems of deportation."

The commission itself split over the charges of its expert, Reuben Oppenheimer, Baltimore attorney, who wrote all but a brief preface to the 179-page report on "The Enforcement of the Deportation Laws." Oppenheimer asserted that in examining about 100,000 supposed aliens and deporting about 15,000 annually officials employed methods that smacked of the inquisition and often violated "the plainest dictates of humanity."

"It is doubtful," he said "if anywhere in the entire system of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence are government officials given similar unfettered rights of private inquiry, or is the exercise of governmental power more often characterized by violations of fairness and decency."

Object to Charges

Both Col. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., and former Justice Kenneth Mackintosh of the Washington State Supreme court, objected to these charges as a too severe indictment of the department of labor. The latter said flatly he did not believe the abuses were as wide as was indicated.

"The limited number of cases to which Mr. Oppenheimer refers," Doak said today, "cover a period prior to my becoming secretary of labor. Every effort has been made to correct administrative abuses, and Mr. Oppenheimer generously acknowledges that facts he finds do not now apply to the department.

"The major point, however, is that the American people have a right to deport criminal aliens, and aliens who have come illegally into the country. Any practical legislation that will strengthen the hands of the department of labor in effecting this purpose will be welcomed by the department."

Doak said there were hundreds of thousands of aliens that had not yet been reached with the department's present staff and equipment, adding that he knew of "no more important work before the country than to rid it of alien criminals."

He asserted more affective work could be done if there were more cooperation between federal and local authorities and if the deportation laws were stronger.

"Wherever the report supports practical measures to this end," Doak concluded, "I am for the report."

Many Practices Hit

While holding for the necessity of large-scale deportations, and conceding that the labor department was not entirely responsible for the listed "defects and abuses," Oppenheimer's report condemned unequivocally man present practices.

He charged that immigration inspectors in a series of recent raids upon various sorts of meetings had held large groups of people without warrant and that it was but a "short step from these raids to the breaking up of any meeting which a government official may not approve."

Almost the entire basis for most deportation proceedings, he said, lies in a preliminary examination given supposed aliens by an inspector who has the power to report only testimony as he sees fit and to ask any type of question he desires.

"There is strong ground for the belief," Oppenheimer said, "that many statements taken from the supposed aliens are extorted by methods both illegal and unfair.... There is no reason which can justify the practices of the inquisition in cross-examination by immigration inspectors."

Bomb Plots Are Probed In Colorado

Munitions Depot and Gasoline Storage Tanks Targets, Officials Aver

Denver, Colo. —(AP)— An alleged plot to burn up a government munitions depot at the Colorado National guard rifle range at Golden, and a reputed attempt to bomb gasoline storage tanks of the Continental Oil company at Alamosa were under investigation today.

Explosive experts were taken to Alamosa from Denver by two national guard planes yesterday. An ingenious time clock arrangement was found beneath an oil tank. Careful search failed to reveal explosives. Investigators said, however, evidence definitely showed an attempt had been made to blow up the plant.

A heavy guard was placed around the rifle range after Alphonse P. Ardourel, national guard quartermaster, said a tip had revealed an organized plan to break into the depot.

It also was learned at Ardourel's office that real bullets were slipped in among rounds of blank ammunition issued to national guard troops for a sham battle which ended their training period last June. The bullets were discovered prior to the engagement and the occurrence was kept a secret while officials investigated.

While state officials declined to offer a definite explanation of the suspected plot to blow up the munitions depot, the theory was advanced it may have had some connection with circumstances that led to the arrest of two Communists near the Canadian border last June. The two, officials said, were enroute to Colorado to enlist in the guard.

PRUSSIA FACING TEST OF STRENGTH

Victory of Radical Group Would Lessen Faith in Reich's Stability

Berlin — (AP) —While Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius are speeding homeward tomorrow from their exchange of courtesies with Premier Mussolini in Rome, a tug-of-war with disquiting possibilities will be in progress between the middle parties and the extremists at home.

Prussia will hold a plebiscite on the question of compelling dissolution of its diet which, with its 450 members, is only slightly smaller than the Reichstag. And the state of Prussia constitutes two-thirds of the Reich.

Germany's neighbors are watching the trial of strength with some apprehension and it is recognized here that a victory for the radical elements would lessen confidence abroad in the stability of the Reich.

"Last appeal," posters urging citizens to register for or against the dissolution, or to stay away from the polls altogether, were much in evidence today.

During the night 66 men and women were arrested for unauthorized bill posting and painting slogans on walls and pavements.

Resentment at the Prussian government's order to all Prussian newspapers to print an anti-plebiscite appeal continued unabated. The appeal is said to have played into the hands of the extremists and to have caused many waverers to side with the opponents of the government.

TWO WOMEN FLIERS MAY RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC

Burbank, Calif. — (AP) — Rumors hereabouts indicate there may be another air race across the Atlantic —but this time of a distinctly feminine character.

Carl Squier, general manager of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation, said last night that Elinor Smith, former holder of the women's altitude record, "perhaps" plans to span the ocean by air with the purchase of a fast ship equipped for distance flying.

The other woman flier immediately interested in a trip across the Atlantic, retracing the Lindbergh route, is Laura Ingalls. A third, Ruth Nichols, who cracked up some time ago, is recuperating from injuries received from a cross-ocean attempt.

MOHAMMEDANS ATTACK HINDU PROCESSION

Ahola, India —(AP)— An undetermined number of Mohammedans and Hindus were injured, some seriously, when a number of Moslems attacked a Hindu procession today with stones and clubs. Police suppressed the disturbance after the wildest commotion by charging the manifestants with their sticks.

LINDBERGHS AT POINT BARROW ON ORIENT TRIP

Japanese Question Pangborn and Herndon After Ill-advised Flight

Thorshavn, Faroe Islands —(AP)— Parker D. Cramer, American flier charting an airmail route across the north Atlantic, brought his plane down in a bay off the nearby island of Suderoe last night. He announced today he would take off as soon as possible for Bergen and would reach Copenhagen from there Sunday afternoon.

He came down in the ocean between here and Reykjavik in the night and there were reports that he had been forced down by engine trouble, but the flier said this morning he had not been obliged to land but had done so partly to test the seaworthiness of his ship.

The plane is in good condition, ready for a resumption of the flight whenever the pilot decides to take off.

NORTH OF ARCTIC CIRCLE

Point Barrow, Alaska—(AP)— Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, the flying vacationists, and their speedy monoplane arrived here today in the shadow of the Arctic ice pack, at America's most northern outpost, 320 miles north of the Arctic circle.

Through low lying fog banks which shrouded their way, Col. Lindbergh piloted his plane from Aklavik, N. W. T., last night and set it down on a lead of open water a 2 o'clock a. m., Pacific standard time, (5 o'clock a. m., eastern standard time). The hop of 536 miles along the shores of the Beaufort sea and Arctic ocean was made in six hours and 30 minues.

Enthusiasm in this little community, a handful of whites and several hundred Eskimos, burst forth as the glistening low-winged monoplane was sighted in the eastern sky.

Cheers rang out from groups on several high points of land in the community and they rushed to the water front to await the mooring of the plane and the coming of the flier and his diminutive wife to shore.

On their flight, with the few hours of darkness overtaking them and a heavy fog bank hiding the earth from them for an hour, Mrs. Lindbergh was in almost constant communication with the radio station here and at Aklavik.

At midnight, a message said they had just emerged from flying through an hour of fog. Another an hour and a half earlier had told of Col. Lindbergh's turning the plane inland from the ocean to find better weather.

FLIERS QUESTIONED

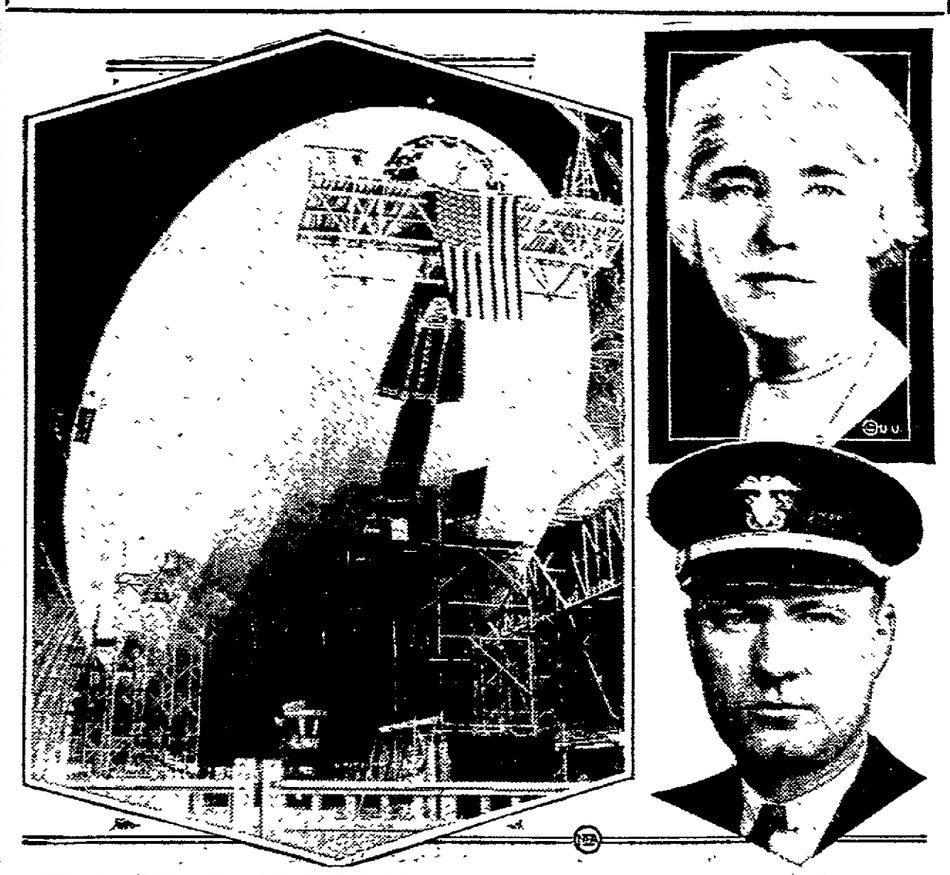
Tokio —(AP)— Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., who are planning a nonstop flight to Seattle, were questioned by metropolitan police today concerning complications which arose with the finding of a camera in their plane upon their arrival here from Khabarovsk, Siberia.

The aviators were questioned about their flight over fortifications at Hakodate, Hokkaido island, and about a Russian map of Japan, which the said was the only map they could obtain at Khabarovsk.

There were indications the authorities would not reach a decision for several days.

Several Japanese officials said Herndon and Pangborn probably would be reprimanded or possibly assessed a nominal fine for violations particularly for flying over fortified zones.

Here's Striking View Of Dreadnaught Of Air, Christened Today At Akron



Here is a striking view of the U. S. S. Akron, the navy's new mammoth of the skies, which Mrs. Herbert Hoover christened today at Akron, Ohio. Mrs. Hoover and Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, who will be in command of the sky dreadnaught when it takes the air about Sept. 1, are also shown. The estimated maximum speed of the new airship is 83.8 miles an hour. Its cruising range at a speed of 50 miles an hour is to be 10,580 miles.

Methodist Board Assails Mrs. Mable Willebrandt

Washington —(AP)— Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, and the government have been assailed by the Methodist Board of Temperance for their actions in connection with the sale of grape concentrates convertible into wines by home treatment.

The attack was made in an article in "The Voice", a board publication, which said it was disconcerting that Mrs. Willebrant, formerly in charge of the federal prohibition enforcement division of the justice department, should become counsel for Fruit Industries, Ltd., manufacturers of the concentrates.

Through loans from the farm board, the article said, the government was accused of fostering a nation-wide industry in partially manufactured wines. It added that it would be difficult to surpress the "traffic" since the government would not find it easy to obtain warrants for the search of homes.

"It may well be," the board said, that it may be necessary to amend the Volstead act requiring that fruit juices be protected from fermentation before being sold."

Recalling that Mrs Willebrandt had raised an "eloquent voice" in Methodist conferences and in the councils of dry leaders, the board declared:

"She it is through whom the government has been won to this benevolent attitude toward a traffic so inimical to temperance. She it is who has convinced the government that this traffic is not in fact a violation of the terms of the Volstead act."

REJECTS "WINE BRICK" OFFER

San Francisco—(AP)—Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant U. S. attorney general and now counsel for the California grape industry has refused to act as attorney for the "wine brick" company whose New York office was raided Wednesday.

Mrs Willebrandt's services were sought by Karl Offer, manager here of the brick makers. Yesterday he received a telegram form her saying:

"I am sorry, but do not take prohibition cases." There was no explanation.

TWO REFORMATORY PRISONERS ESCAPE

Green Bay—(AP)— Two short-term reformatory inmates, Alfred Gerou, 28, and Albert Brueski, 19, walked away from the reformatory honor farm at Oneida last night, according to a notice sent out from the institution today.

Brueski, according to Supt. Earl H. Eklund, has been on parole since May, but could not leave the institution because no work could be found for him. Both fugitives are "honor men."

Gerou is described as 5 feet 6½ inches tall, weighing 131 pounds, with grey eyes. Brueski is 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighing 150 pounds, with chestnut hair. Both men wore overalls when they escaped.

WINKLER, BURKE PAL, IN CRITICAL CONDITION

St. Joseph, Mich. — (AP)—August (Gus) Winkler, reputed member of the Fred Burke gang, who has been in a hospital here since an automobile accident Wednesday, suffered relapse today and was reported in a critical condition. Dr. R. J. Brown said Winkler probably would be blind in one eye if he recovered.

Germany Negotiates For Purchase Of U. S. Wheat

Berlin —(AP)— The German government today offered to buy 500,000 tons of wheat from the holdings of the United States Farm Board for delivery in 1932.

Moving along another line in an effort to relieve financial pressure on the farmers, the government issued an emergency decree providing for storage of grain against negotiable warehouse certificates.

On the theory that the farmers better sell their wheat now where they can for cash, holding only enough to meet the domestic demand until spring, negotiations have begun with the farm board for the purchase of enough wheat to tide the nation over from spring until the next harvest time.

The emergency decree provides that the farmer shall store his grain, accepting certificates negotiable at banks or on the bourse, the farmer to receive the major portion of the present market price, enabling him to hold his grain off the market until the market is better able to absorb it.

The amount to be loaned against the warehouse certificate is to be determined with a view to protecting the lender against violent market fluctuations.

The few details of the plan which have been disclosed indicated that the brokers who export wheat now to whatever markets they can find would be granted government certificates permitting them to import in the spring an amount equal to their exports, virtually duty-free.

It was not revealed whether the government itself would handle the American deal or whether individual brokers would form an exporting and importing syndicate.

The question of how sale of the present German crop would affect the world wheat market does not seem to be troubling the backers of the undertaking, but others assert that marketing of wheat in a search for cash hardly would benefit a market already in the doldrums.

How the American purchase is to be paid for what not disclosed, but it was considered likely that the shipments would come on a C. O. D. basis the freight bill represent on a sort of part from the country now have to pay for the privilege of getting hands on cash now.

GIGANTIC AIRPLANE SAVED FROM CRASH

Skilled Handling by Pilot Averts Catastrophe—18 Aboard Ship

Tonbridge, Eng. —(AP)— Brilliant handling by the pilot of the Hannibal, one of the largest passenger airplanes in the world, prevented an air catastrophe today.

As it was, the Hannibal, bound with 15 passengers for Paris from Croydon, was forced down in a small field near Tonbridge. In alighting the plane barely missed a house top and sheared off its long tail when it got caught in telegraph wires. A telegraph pole was pulled down.

None of the passengers or members of the crew was hurt. After a short delay the passengers were taken by motor to Lympne where they boarded another plane.

It was misty and rainy when the Hannibal, a ship with a capacity for 38 passengers, left Croydon. Over Tonbridge it ran into a bank of clouds. Only one of the four engines was operating at the time.

The pilot, Captain Dismore, decided to land and glided down from 1800 feet. Farmers saw the descent and feared the ship was lost but a moment after touching the ground the Hannibal stopped and remained upright.

Inside one of the large salons of the ship Sir Henry Birkin, widely known racing motorist, stood up just before the landing and warned the other passengers to remain calm and keep their seats. All obeyed him.

An Imperial Airways official said one of the propellers broke in mid-air and fell off, thus forcing the landing. It was believed engineers could make repairs on the spot and the plane could be able to fly back to Croydon — a day or so.

SLAIN ROBBER WHO SHOT POLICEMAN IDENTIFIED

LaFayette, Ind —(AP)— Word was received here last night from the United States Department of Justice that the robber who was fatally wounded when he opened shooting and killing Patrolman Henry Farrell here has been identified by fingerprints as Kenneth Stout, Milwaukee.

Farrell was killed Tuesday night as he and another officer answered a call regarding a filling station robbery. When the robber opened fire in an attempt to escape the officers emptied their pistols at him.

CATALONIANS READY TO DECIDE PROGRAM

Barcelona, Spain —(AP)— With the greatest secrecy surrounding his movements President Macia has called a meeting of Catalonians tomorrow which is expected to formulate a definite attitude in case the central government should fail to grant the province autonomy, it was learned today.

Following an overwhelming vote in favor of the autonomy statute, he declined all interviews, but it was authoritatively learned he has been subjected to great pressure on the part of radicals wishing absolute separation from Spain and others who adopted a more conciliatory attitude.

He was understood to have secretly conferred with leaders of various groups who insist that the statute must be accepted by Madrid in its entirety and who are said to have proclaimed their willingness to fight for their ideals. Until a few days before the vote he was understood to have favored the same principles

JUNEAU DESCENDANTS RECEIVE POOR AID

Milwaukee —(AP)— Three grandchildren of Solomon Juneau, founder of the city of Milwaukee, today were receiving old age pensions from the county because they stated they are in financial need.

Frank Juneau, 8, and his sisters, Mary, 14, and Pauline, 12, children of Paul Juneau, son of Solomon, each were awarded $25 monthly in county court yesterday. They once owned much Milwaukee real estate but said their investments had failed. The sisters defaulted to the county $2,000 in bonds which they said they were unable to dispose of in order that they might become eligible for the pension.

87 PASSENGERS TAKEN FROM GROUNDED LINER

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil —(AP)— Radio messages today said 87 passengers had been taken off the Munson Liner Western World, which is aground at Ponta do Bel, 50 miles North of Santos.

The passengers were taken aboard the General Osorio, a Hamburg-South American Liner, and will arrive here tonight according to the message. Two holds were flooded when the ship went around.

GREAT THRONG AT CHRISTENING OF GIANT AKRON

Mrs. Hoover Sponsor as Air Liner Several Blocks Long Is Floated

Akron, Ohio —(AP)— The U. S. Akron had only the horizons before it today.

"Air born" in a ceremony of superlatives, the world greatest airship was formally christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who released white pigeons from its massive hull in symbolic gesture to its future flights.

Its first fledging effort was but a rise of a few feet from its supporting framework. Yet it marked the beginning of a service under the ensign of the navy that brings the United States to the fore in Zeppelin construction.

More than 100,000 persons surrounded the great dock as Mrs. Hoover pulled the golden cord releasing the pigeons and said simply: "I christen thee Akron."

Overhead, following the ceremony, wheeled squadrons of army and navy planes in salute to the new mistress of the skies. Nearly 100 ships took part in the impressive formations.

P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, builders of the "Akron" and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, spoke briefly.

Admiral Moffett intimated that the future yet teld greater fruits for airship designers, and advocated construction of a second great Zeppelin exceeding in size that of the Akron.

Several Blocks Long

The new dirigible is as long as several city blocks, and as high as a 15-story building. It was freed from its cradle and floated about 40 feet along the interior of the giant hangar which has covered it during the two years it has been under construction.

Not since the Montgolfier brother at Annanoy, France, in 1783 sent up their 35-foot paper balloon, has the launching of a lighter-than-air craft created so much attention as the launching and christening of the 6,500,000- cubic foot, helium-filled "Akron."

This huge ship built by the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation for the navy, is the product of years of accumulation of knowledge of Zeppelin construction, far exceeding the dreams of Count Ferdinand Zeppelin a half century ago. It is a marvel of aeronautical engineering, accomplished under the direction of the veteran Zeppelin builder, Dr. Karl Arnstein.

The christening and launching in the afternoon, will be followed by a banquet tonight for 900 persons, including army, navy and marine corps officers, aviation and technical experts, newspaper men, diplomats and other public officials.

Among the notables at the christening were George White, Governor of Ohio; Mayor G. Lloyd Weil of Akron; Captain George W. Steele former commander of the dirigible Los Angeles; Commander Garland Fulton, in charge of the lighter-than-air division of the bureau of aeronautics.

Planes In Maneuvers

Before the christening ceremonies, the doors of the hangar were swung open to permit the entrance of the spectators to the enormous room where the dirigible rested like a chrysalis of a butterfly ready for flight. During the launching, 150 army, navy and civilian airplanes maneuvered over the dock.

The Akron is the first of a pair of dirigibles ordered for construction here by the navy. Officials of the construction company anticipated authorization for the start of construction of the sistership within six weeks.

The complete outfitting of the Akron is to include everything essential for scouting, bombing and aerial combat. It will carry five fighting airplanes which may be released in mid-air, and will be armed by large caliber machine guns. The estimated maximum speed is 83.8 miles per hour, and it is to have a cruising range at a speed of 50 miles an hour, of 10,580 miles.

Although enough helium gas was placed in the Akron's 12 gas compartments to lift it from its cradle today, the inflation will not be completed until later, when the first trial flight is made, About Sept. 1.

U. S. AND NEVADA AT ODDS ON BOULDER CITY

Washington—(AP)—A court struggle between the federal government and the state of Nevada over which will rule Boulder City where Hoover dam is being constructed appears imminent.

The interior department has declared the construction camp a federal reservation, but the Nevada attorney general maintains state laws apply as well as taxes. A conference in Reno Aug. 15 is expected result in getting the matter before the courts.

Hoping they make the camp a model one, the interior department established the reservation to prohibit vice, bootlegging and gaming by inserting a clause in leases awarded concessionaires. Gambling is allowed in Nevada.

Mussolini Accepts Invitation Of Germans To Visit Berlin

AMITY RULES IN DISCUSSION OF PROBLEMS

Nations Must Labor "to Heal Moral and Material Wounds," Duce States

Rome —(AP)— Premier Mussolini today accepted Chancellor Bruening's invitation to go to Berlin for a return visit with German officials at a date yet to be determined.

Rome—(AP)— A spirit of cooperation in threshing out the problems which affect Italo-German relations and indirectly the prosperity of the world dominated today's conferences —the second and last between the heads of the German and Italian states.

Premier Mussolini's return call on Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius took the form of a "secret" rendezvous at the German embassy, a place where police protection was easy and which might legally be considered German soil.

The visitors will see Pope Pius in separate private audiences later in the day, in view of the fact they are of opposite faiths, and will entrain for Berlin and the trouble of the homeland at 10 o'clock this evening.

Il Duce told his guests at an official dinner last night that Germany and Italy as well as all other nations must labor together in the "great common work whose aim is to heal the moral and material wounds which the war left behind and from which all peoples still suffer.

He lauded German culture, science and industry and expressed sympathy with the Reich's efforts to overcome her financial stringencies, not forgetting to praise the Hoover war debt holiday as an important factor in her rehabilitation.

"We are convinced ever more," he said, "that active and friendly cooperation by governments and peoples points the best way for finally emerging from these difficulties and for securing an era of prosperity and well-being."

Bruening Elated

Chancellor Bruening replied that the premier's sentiments filled him with "grateful joy" and expressed the hope that "through common effort the great difficulties of the present day may be overcome." He too spoke of the Hoover moratorium as "of trail-blazing importance."

"We know that our apprehensions concern not only our own country but Europe and the world," he said, "and we, therefore, hope for an understanding on the part of all who are of good will and who desire to give peace to the world."

To a suggestion that an international conference of statesmen in Washington would be a fitting climax to those in London, Paris and Rome, Mussolini smiled, and replied:

"But, my dear sir, I couldn't leave Italy so long. Is such a conference still necessary? From what I hear out of Germany now, things have decidedly taken a turn for the better. Of course its always a good thing for our statesmen to meet and know each other but I think Germany is pulling through all right."

It was learned on good authority that Mussolini expressed during the meeting after the dinner the wish that France could see her way clear to adhere finally to the projected Franco-Italian naval agreement, which grew out of the London naval conference but which went aground on technical interpretations.

It will be the premier's first formal visit outside Italy since he went to London in 1922 shortly after he became head of the Italian state. He himself will fix the date for the trip to Berlin.

Announcement for his plans came after he and Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister, had conferred for an hour at the German embassy with Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius.

At the same time the conferees issued a joint statement of the results of the meetings today and yesterday.

"Various exchanges of views have taken place, accompanied by a sense of reciprocal friendly comprehension and deep cordiality," the statement said. "The general European situation has been extensively examined and the necessity for active collaboration by all governments has been recognized.

"The conclusion also has been reached that it is necessary to exchange data on armaments so that the forthcoming disarmament conference will produce effective results in the interests of peace and the economic and moral life of the world."

Later Premier Mussolini received representatives of the German press and, addressing them in German, expressed his delight at having met the chancellor and Dr. Curtius.

"I can see," he said, "that they are both animated by a will to cure their country of the ills from which it still suffers, and to instill in their people a confidence in the future."

It will make its first flight about Sept. 1.

WISCONSIN'S ONLY ADMIRAL MOVES UP NOTCH

Luke McNamee Becomes Vice-admiral in Sept.; Born in Grant-co

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent's Washington Correspondent)

Washington — Wisconsin's only admiral, Luke McNamee, moves up another notch. He becomes vice admiral on Sept. 15 and will thereafter be commander, battleships, battle force. He is now commander of battleship division No. 1, battle force, and is a rear admiral.

Admiral McNamee's station is in the Pacific. He was born April 4, 1871, in the little Switzerland that is Mount Hope, Grant county, Wis., the 1930 population of which was 484. The village of Mount Hope had a population of 256 last year.

It was Kansas, however, that sent him to the United States Naval academy, from the fifth congressional district of that state, in 1888. Four years later he was commissioned ensign, and has moved steadily upward since then until he reached the rank of rear admiral on Nov. 16, 1925.

He was awarded the Navy Cross for his service during the World war as chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet and later on the staff of the commander of the United States naval forces in European waters.

Before the Armistice, he was a member of the Paris advisory staff of the chief of naval operations, and during the deliberations incident to the preparation of the naval terms of peace with Germany, he also served in a like advisory capacity.

The President of the French republic awarded him the decoration of the Legion of Honor with the rank of officer.

After the war, Admiral McNamee served on the staff of the Naval War College from August, 1919 to May 30, 1920. He commanded the battleship Nevada for a year and was director of naval intelligence from 1921 until 1923, when he became commander of the battleship Tennessee.

In 1924 he went to London as naval attache at the American embassy, where he remained until 1926 and was then appointed commander of the destroyer squadrons of the battle fleet. In 1928 he became director of fleet training, stationed in the department here.

In October, 1930, he took command of battleship division 4 of the battle force, but nearly found himself an admiral without a fleet, for two of the three battleships in the division were taken out of service to be modernized. Two more battleships were added, however, and the division was called battleship division 1, with the Maryland as the temporary flagship.

A rapid rise in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury department, has been made by a Wisconsin man. Ralph E. Smith, formerly of Merrill and Madison, became assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue Saturday.

Smith entered the bureau in 1925 as an attorney in the office of the general counsel. Last November he became chief of the civil division. Now he jumps to the post next to the top, being outranked only by the commissioner of internal revenue. About $1,500 increase in salary goes with this new promotion, and another considerable increase came with his appointment of last November. A year ago he was not even of the rank to be listed in the Official Register of the United States, giving the names of those holding executive and administrative positions. Now he is second in charge of one of the most important bureaus of the federal government—the bureau which collects all the income, inheritance, and miscellaneous taxes, in fact all the money the government gets except customs duties, fines and penalties, and debt payments.

A Wisconsin man is next to the top in the debt service, too—Sydney R. Jacobs of Whitewater, and a third, Frederic Newburgh of the first district, is head of the field procedure division of the income tax unit, internal revenue bureau. Still another, D. P. McCormack, also of the first congressional district, is chief of the drawback and bonding division of the customs bureau. Besides, Miss Adelia M. Stewart of Oshkosh and Chippewa Falls, chief of the examining division of the office of comptroller of the currency, is the only woman division chief in the whole Treasury department. She worked her way from the bottom where she started 39 years ago.

So the Treasury has done fairly well by Wisconsin people.

Besides, appeals from decisions made by the bureau of internal revenue might come before a Wisconsin man, Stephen J. McMahon of Milwaukee, member of the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

But Smith has made the swiftest rise of them all.

He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. From 1903 until 1905 he practiced law at Merrill. From 1911 to 1915 he was a member and for three years president of the state board of control, having charge of state penal and charitable institutions.

Speaking of the Treasury — although there is no connection whatever between the two items—the Palmolive company of Milwaukee recently got back $37,169.44 in income and profits taxes it had paid for 1921. An additional deduction for taxes accrued in the taxable year was allowed by Commissioner David Burnet.

Washington, of course, was greatly interested in the announcement of Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine to succeed her husband, the late dean of the House of Representatives. Mrs. Cooper is a well-known figure at the Capitol, being an almost daily visitor to her husband's office and to the galleries. Everybody knows her in social and political circles here. She was quite prominent socially, but last year her activities were seriously curtailed by Rep. Cooper's illness and her own. She had just escaped death when her husband's death came.

Wisconsin men who have recently accepted promotions or appointments in the army reserves include: Col. John Charles Davis of Milwaukee, coast artillery; Maj. Edwin David Jones of Superior, engineers; Capt. John Clement Moran of La Crosse, medical reserves; First Lieutenant William Charles Wojta of Fond du Lac, medical reserves; Second Lieutenant Elmer Daniel Carl Kobs of Merrill, field artillery; Miles Elias Myers of Fond du Lac, quartermaster reserves; Clayton Webster Stearns of Omro, medical administration; Beldon Earl La Ransky of Sparta, medical administration; and Louis Anthony Hoch of Palmyra, medical administration.

NEGRO AND WHITE HELD IN ARKANSAS SLAYING

Dewitt, Ark —(AP)— A Negro and a white man were held here today on a charge they forced a deputy sheriff to surrender John Parker, Negro under arrest on a murder charge, and then ordered Parker to the roadside where he was shot dead.

The two were arrested yesterday by the deputy, Henry Cummins, who said they had halted his car on the highway. A charge of first degree murder was lodged against the negro, John Brooks, and the white man; O. C. Lumsden, was held as an accessory.

Parker was being taken to Bayou Meto for preliminary hearing on a charge of slaying a Negro youth, Bernice Flourney. Cummins said Brooks told him Parker tried to kill him before slaying Flourney.

Commins said he did not know why Lumsden participated in the affair.

"MA" KENNEDY ON WAY TO EX-SPOUSE

"Telegraph and Telephone Bills Running Too High," She Declares

Los Angeles —(AP)— Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy was on her way today to confer with her recent husband, Guy E. "What-a-man" Hudson, in Las Vegas, Nevada, saying the object of her trip was to reduce expenses.

"Our telegraph and telephone bills are running too high," she said, as she prepared to board a train last night. She is still wearing the wedding ring Hudson gave her before she discovered he had neglected to divorce Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson, which led her to obtain annulment of their marriage.

Hudson, whose attorney said he is in Las Vegas to seek annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Newton-Hudson was freed of the threat of a bigamy action against him here when a fugitive complaint issued at the request of Washington authorities was dismissed in municipal court.

Governor Hartley had declined to ask Hudson's extradition, declaring his state had funds for the prosecution of "Class A criminals" only. But the sheriff at Longview, Wash., said he is keeping the warrant, just in case Hudson drops in sometime.

Promoted

DR. JOEL T. BOONE

Dr. Boone Is Advanced In Naval Rank

President's Personal Physician Now Rated as Lieutenant Commander

Washington —(AP)—The promotion of Dr. Joel T. Boone, President Hoover's personal physician, from the rank of lieutenant commander to commander, has received executive approval.

Boone's promotion came about after Mr. Hoover declined to approve a promotion list of medical officers that did not include the lieutenant commander. The chief executive instructed a new selection board to submit a list. The new group included Boone in recommending advancement for seven officers.

The naval selection boards annually make recommendations to the chief executive for advancement of officers above the rank of a senior grade lieutenant, and heretofore seniority has played a large part in the naming of the officers.

In that connection, Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the navy made public a letter from President Hoover dated July 17, which said:

"I wish it to be known and recorded by the new board that the president has no interest in this matter other than to see that the best men should receive promotion."

Jahncke said that "seniority is only to be considered where two candidates have records and possess qualities of like character and where differentiation is indistinguishable, merit must be the dominating guide."

Boone's name was sixth on the list of promotions. In seniority he was near the end of the list of 33 eligibles. He has been personal physician to Mr. Hoover since April, 1922, and holds the rank of captain as long as he is at the White House. He also was awarded the congressional medal of honor and the army's distinguished service cross for heroism in France in the World war.

India Maps Her Stand For Parley

Bombay, India —(AP)— Following America's example, the parliamentary committee of the Indian Nationalist congress today incorporated prohibition and disarmament as planks in the constitution which Mahatma Gandhi will demand at the approaching round table conference in London.

The committee also adopted a plank banning narcotics except for medical purposes, and approving state ownership of key industries, resources and transportation facilities.

"In order to terminate exploitation of the masses," the committee declared, "political freedom must include real economic freedom for India's starving millions."

Gandhi was instructed to demand from the British among other things the following "fundamental rights:"

Adjudication of all debts incurred by the British in India during the last 150 years.

Protection of indigenous cloth and other native industries and the exclusion of foreign cloth.

Right of every citizen to keep and bear arms.

Adoption of universal adult suffrage.

Creation of free primary education.

Freedom from all duty on common salt manufactured in India.

Reduction of all salaries to a maximum of 500 rupees monthly.

Freedom of labor from serfdom.

Special legislation respecting the rights and welfare of women and children workers.

Radical reforms in the present system of land tenure and revenue taxation.

Safeguards for the interests of industrial workers.

LITTLE REST FOR ALDERMEN NEXT 2 WEEKS

Council Refers Knotty Problems to Committees for Study

A heavy schedule of work was referred to committees at the last meeting of the common council, and practically every city committee will have to meet before the next session of the council.

The street and bridge committee must consider the communication from the Appleton Shirt and Pants company regarding the corner of Lawrence and Superior-sts, and the one from Laabs and Shepherd asking that the city assume the cost of replatting a part of North Park Manor plat; a resolution to raise the sidewalk at 1024 W. Elsie-st, and a petition to vacate a portion of the east side of S. Adams-st along the property owned by Frank Sanders.

Two resolutions are before the fire and water committee, one to extend the later main on Parkway-blvd starting at N. Richmond-st to N. Morrison-st, as recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters instead of stopping at N. Oneida-st, and another to install fire alarm boxes south of Memorial bridge, one at the intersection of Seymour-st and Memorial-dr, and the other on River-dr at Anna-st.

The report of the building inspector and deputy health officer, recommending that no licenses be granted to six junk dealers until all fire hazards are removed was referred to the police and license committee, along with a communication from the Northland Greyhound lines regarding the computation of bus license fees. The six junk yards inspected by the two city officials are those of Sam Shilcrat, Sam Simonefsky, Schlimovitz and Golper, Louis Blacher, A. Kaminsky, and Oscar Friedman.

A petition from Phil A. Crabb to place lot 11, block 95, at the intersection of S. Mason, W. Second, and W. Prospect-sts in the local business district, and one from Anton Stadler to transfer a lot in the Fourth ward into the local business district will be discussed by the planning commission, and the building and grounds committee will confer with a park board about the advisability and possibility of a tourist park for Appleton.

The judiciary committee and the attorney will act on the claim of Ole Johnson for five rabbits killed by dogs, and the attorney will prepare an ordinance placing lots 15 and 16, block 13, Bell Heights addition, Fifth ward, in the local business district.

The board of public works will supervise the widening of the approaches to S. Oneida-st at the intersections of Foster, Seymour, Fremont, Harrison and McKinley-sts, and the finance committee will approve bills.

MANAWA FACTORY BOOSTS MILK PRICE

Dairymen Must Comply With Chicago Board of Health Rules, However

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa —For the second time within three months the price of milk has increased at the Borden factory here. There is one provision this time, however. For those dairymen who are ready for Chicago inspection, or for those who will be ready by the first of September, Borden's will pay $1.20 per hundred pounds for 3.5 percent milk. This is a 10 cent raise over the July price. Farmers who do not comply with the Chicago inspection requirements will continue to receive $1.10 for milk.

Borden officials estimate that approximately 75 percent of their patrons are now meeting the requirements of the Chicago Board of Health, and will be paid at the increased rate. Chicago inspection stresses the proper amount of light and air in the barn, the construction of a milk house, and other requirements that tend toward purer milk.

Losing control of a heifer he was trying to lead on a truck to bring to Manawa, Arthur Klotzbuecher, town of Lebanon farmer, was severely injured Wednesday. Klotzbuecher's foot became caught in the rope by which the heifer was being led, and the frightened animal dragged the man several rods over uneven, stony ground before it was caught. Besides sustaining severe bruises, Klotzbuecher's knee was badly wrenched.

PROTECT CITIZENS FROM MANY PEDDLERS

Police Department to Investigate Transients Selling Goods in City

Residents who are pestered by peddlers are asked to call the police station, Police Chief George T. Prim announced today. An officer will be sent out to immediately investigate the rights of the peddler to operate in the city.

It has come to the attention of city officers that Appleton, perhaps because it is less hit by the depression than other cities in the state, has become the mecca of peddlers. Residents are being bothered by the unusual number of transients selling everything from oriental rugs to sewing needles, and in an attempt to check this influx of peddlers the police will tighten up on the enforcement of Appleton's regulations along this line.

No transient is permitted to peddle goods that is in direct competition to commodities sold by local, tax-paying merchants.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"WRECKED ON THE REEFS OF INFERENCES"

THIS is the story of a master player who was taken for a ride to the tune of 2000 points on one deal at Contract, proving that it can be done, and also proving that after the player masters all the technique of bidding and play that others can teach him, his real study of the game begins. But the rest of the journey he must travel alone. It is much more difficult to play successfully with bad and erratic partners than with weak and freakish hands.

The greatest mistake made by an advanced player is to assume lightly that a partner, even a very intelligent partner, knows and understands all that he should know. Simplification of one's inferences is the secret of success with partners of average skill. To an expert player you can present a complex and subtle set of inferences; your thoughts can be deeply involved and delicately hung upon a chain of closely knit inductions and deductions; and you can really build a house of cards that would be as solid as though made from steel and cement.

The same set of inferences when conveyed to an average player, must be radically simplified and built on premises that you know that he knows. You will lose a great deal in precision and comprehension but you will recoup your losses in clarity and understanding. This is the key to partnership adaptation. The same fundamental process of simplification underlies most human contacts, whether you sell bonds, write scenarios or make speeches.

There are more different kinds and levels of thought than languages on the earth.

In Bridge, the "algebraic" bidding or play is useless with a partner who cannot clearly grasp the meaning of symbols. In the hand below, Michael T. Gottlieb, one of the outstanding Auction and Contract players in the world, was South. His forte is psychology and daring imagination but even a master will slip up a cog.

	♠ Q 9 5 3 ♥ A 4 3 ♦ 9 8 7 ♣ 5 3 2
♠ K 10 ♥ 8 7 6 ♦ K Q J 4 ♣ 3 2 ♣ Q 8	N W E S	♠ A J 8 7 ♥ K 10 5 2 ♦ 10 ♣ A K 9 6
	♠ 6 4 2 ♥ Q J 9 ♦ A 6 5 ♣ J 10 7 4 (Dealer) (MR. GOTTLIEB)

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
1NT(1)?	Dbl.(2)	Pass	Pass
Redbl.(3)??	Pass	Pass?	Pass

Result: Mr. Gottlieb makes only his heart Ace and diamond Ace and is set 5 tricks redoubled or 2000 points.

1—An "inhibitory" notrump. One of the dangerous little pranks in order to throw some sand into enemies' eyes, beloved by experts. In this case the punishment was swift.

2—A Penalty Double. "Attack first and then see."

3—A tragic error of psychology, tragic because technically the bid is correct. Mr. Gottlieb's partner, though very intelligent, was not as yet conversant with the intricacies of an S.O.S. Redouble. Had he been an experienced player or a demi-god, he could have easily reasoned out the bid as follows: My partner (South) passed originally—therefore, he had but an average share of honor-tricks (about 2). He subsequently bids one notrump over a Third Hand bid and is doubled for penalties by West, who therefore, has also an average share of honors but a long suit as well. South's Redouble obviously can mean only one thing: "I am caught in a trap and would rather fight it out at some suit bid. I do not wish, as yet, to bid two in my own suit for fear of shutting out a lower ranking suit in your (North's) hand that may fit better in with the two hands. Show me your longest suit."

North's bid was two spades, thus saving a trick or two. But in my opinion, the real guilt lies not with North, who could not decipher the message, but with South. His code was too complicated.

Today's Pointer

When your partner makes an Opening bid of one, either in a suit or at notrump, he promises you at least 2-½ honor-tricks, which normally produce from 4 to 4-½ playing tricks and assumes that you have approximately 3 playing tricks. If you hold at least Q x x or x x x x of suit bid, you can raise one for each playing trick held in excess of 3. If there has been no intervening bid, this can be shaded to exactly 3 and, if not vulnerable, to slightly less than 3 in order to give partner another chance to bid.

Record Fish To Be Found In Chippewa River Reservoir

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

Some time ago I mentioned in one of my articles the fishing to be had on the reservoir of the Chippewa river. Since then I have received a number of inquiries asking further information relative to that region. I believe, therefore, that an article giving complete details will be of value to others who follow my hints on where to go, hence I am writing this one today.

This water is called Lake Chippewa, but it is really a reservoir of water caused by the dam which was built at the point where the east and west forks of the Chippewa river come together. It was constructed to form a head of water for the power plant at Wisota, near Chippewa Falls.

Although this lake is comparatively unfished and there are few resorts on it, for a fishing suggestion close to the big cities it takes all prizes. The Soo Line railway to Park Falls, and from there in a livery to Loretta or Winter, where there are several fine resorts, is the best advice I can offer for a successful fishing trip. Or you can go direct to Log Lodge on Fishtrap lake, post office of Winter. There are other resorts, such as Lessard's, on the west fork of the Chippewa river that are okay.

In this reservoir, which is 30 miles long and 18 wide, are muskies, wall-eyes, northern pike, big ones, and bass. The muskies are big lunkers, too. Record fish come from there every season. And they bite best on plugs, which is not always the case where the fish are large. The feed in the reservoir cannot be very plentiful for I've heard different ones say that the muskies will hit a tin can tied to a hook.

The fishing for wall-eyes is hard to beat. The bait usually used for them is live minnows and frogs. The black bass attract expert anglers who catch many of them on artificial flies, using a fly rod, but most anglers use small spinners with a pork rind.

The Chippewa reservoir not only takes in the east and west forks of the Chippewa river, but also the Big and Little Chief rivers, Hay river and numerous small creeks. I fished these streams years ago and they have always been noted for their abundance of game fishes, yet since the establishment of the reservoir they have greatly increased in numbers.

In using a spoon for the big pike, if you wish to do that, do not use too large a one. About number six is best, anyhow not over seven, though I never use one that large. Scale finish plugs in the various makes will get you results. The surface ones are of course better where your are casting around snags. The deep water lures will bring results but they must be used away from underwater obstructions or you will lose one every few casts. And if you hook a big fish he is very likely to foul your line under some old snag, and that means a lost fish as well as lure.

OKLAHOMA OIL WELL CLOSING HELD UNSOUND

Doubt Success of Governor Murray's Plan to Raise Price of Product

BY CARLTON A. SHIVELY

Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—In oil trade and out, the closing of oil wells, as forcibly put into effect by Governor Murray of Oklahoma, is regarded as more spectacular than sound.

It is admitted on all sides that the disease of overproduction from which the industry is suffering can be cured only by a drastic curtailment of output. No complaint can be made on the score of consumption. General trade depression notwithstanding, the consumption of gasoline and other oil products has gone ahead at a greater pace than that for any previous year. In this respect the oil industry differs sharply from virtually all others. Enormous as it has been, demand has not been sufficient to use up current production, to say nothing of the vast amount of crude oil in storage throughout the country and other parts of the world.

Governor Murray is seeking to lift the price of crude oil to $1 a barrel. That is a figure which apparently he considers proper remuneration for production of the commodity from the point of view of the industry and the state's share in its own natural resources. All Oklahoma oil producers undoubtedly would be glad to get that much for their efforts. What consumers of gasoline and other oil products might think of it is another matter, but in the long run, of course, consumers benefit from stable conditions in any industry. All but the so-called stripper wells—producing 25 barrels a day or less—have been closed down in some fields and the cessation of production probably will be stopped throughout the state.

Fundamentally the governor is on the right track to lift prices, but his success is threatened by the fact that his authority extends no further than the Oklahoma fields. This year the oil industry is depressed principally by the opening up of a huge flush pool in east Texas, and the authorities of that state have been powerless to limit the flow in any way. The result has been that crude oil has sunk to the lowest prices in history, selling as low as 10 cents a barrel at the wells in that field. It has shaken down prices in other fields. Texas producers are now offering oil at 15 to 20 cents a barrel to Oklahoma refiners, which means a price at the refineries of about 50 cents a barrel, or virtually the same level as the original Oklahoma prices. Governor Murray has been able to close the spigot but not the bunghole of the oil barrel.

Conceivably, if the courts uphold the governor's action, the removal of Oklahoma oil from the picture would create enough deficiency to raise somewhat the general level of oil prices, for that state produces over 23 per cent of the output for the entire country. Texas is first with nearly 40 per cent. Actually the effect promises to be even more pronounced, for Oklahoma refines about 13 per cent of the current gasoline output, and demand from refineries there probably will rapidly lift prices in East Texas, and incidentally give an even greater spur to production of crude oil in that region.

Oklahoma has what has been regarded as an effective proration law but its working has been largely nullified by Texas operations, not subject to regulation. Texas is seeking to enact a measure for more effective control, but meanwhile the flow of oil continues. Given the proper legal authority, it is possible for the governors of the leading oil producing states to act in concert and stifle production until the price had been lifted to the desired height. That undoubtedly would be difficult to obtain, for the consumer must be reckoned with.

Build Another Dirigible Larger Than Akron, Moffett Urges

SEES GIGANTIC AIR LINERS IN WORLD'S TRADE

Monopoly of Helium Gives U. S. Great Advantage, Admiral Declares

Akron, Ohio —(AP)— Constructoin of the second of two giant naval dirigibles with a 7,500,000 cubic feet acapacity was advocated today by Rearer Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

Speaking at the christening by Mrs. Hoover of the new dirigible Akron, Admiral Moffett declared that to retain the world leadership in airships the United States must increase steadily the size of its dirigibles.

"I hope that our second airship, the ZRS-5, will be enlarged before completion," he said, "and made of 7,500,000 cubic feet volume instead of 6,500,000 (the volume of the Akron. . . . He estimated the present limit of airships was 10,000,000 cubic feet in volume.

Some funds for the second craft have been appropriated and the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation is ready to start its construction pending the navy's approval. If Admiral Moffett's plan is followed it will be nearly one-sixth again as large as the Akron, the biggest dirigible ever launched.

"We do not lead the world in our merchant marine nor, alas, in our navy," said Admiral Moffett, "but we do, by the construction of this great airship, now take the lead in lighter-than-air in the world.

Helium Great Advantage

"Everyone connected with this project should be justly proud of this accomplishment. We should be ashamed were it otherwise for with out practical monopoly of helium we have an opportunity which it would be a national disgrace to neglect."

Great commercial air liners carrying the American flag to far corners of the earth were predicted by the admiral as an outgrowth of the navy's leadership in building the Akron.

Declaring the commercial uses of airships were unbounded, Admiral Moffett said the navy has "laid a foundation that makes it possible and practicable for private interests to carry on and build commercial air liners that will carry our flag over the oceans into the most distant and heretofore inaccessible parts of the earth.

"With them, passengers, freight and mail can be transported from our inland cities to inland cities of other countries across the oceans. It will be easy for airships to explore regions impossible to reach heretofore. Non-stop flights around the world can be made and doubtless will be before long.

"Larger airships will within a few years be plowing the air over the oceans, bringing nearer our neighbors across the Pacific and Atlantic and to the south. . . .

"We have a great opportunity. Let us see that we take full advantage of it and that this great airship is only one of many that will follow."

TWO 4-H CLUBS PLAN FOR SEYMOUR FAIR

Another 4-H club demonstration team was started last night by county 4-H members when the Golden Hill club organized a rope making team. The team will make rope and show one method of using it. Members of the team are Bernard Marsch and Edward Fermanich. Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader, helped organize the team.

A meeting of the So-Right club of Deer Creek was held Friday afternoon and also was attended by Miss Thompson. The girls planned for a booth of the Seymour fair next week. They brought their sewing projects to the meeting and worked on them after the fair project was out of the way. Mothers of several girls attended the meeting.

New York—A coal baron quite unlike the heavy-jowelled magnate of the radical cartoons makes overtures to the government for federal diagnosis and treatment of the sick coal industry. J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., conferring with secretaries Lamont and Doak, is a bachelor of arts, a holder of the golden key of scholarship, a member of the American Academy of Political Science—and possibly a liason between President Hoover, urging conference and conciliation, and the die-hards of the industry who bristle with rage at the mention of governmental cooperation.

MORROW

Coal just now shapes into one of the roughest of hair shirts, and if any body can help fix it up, it ought to be Mr. Morrow. He was fuel distributor under Harry A. Garfield, fuel administrator during the war, and later commissioner of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers' association and general secretary of the National Coal association. He has explored all the shafts, sumps and stopes of coal statistics, and he knows the human side of the industry.

If President Hoover is successful in bringing the operators together in a preliminary conference, Mr. Morrow doubtless will save months of research. He knows as much about coal as Lindbergh does about flying and he can spill it readily.

Captain Robert Dollar, 87, picks up telephone transmitter at San Francisco and speeds to sea from New York the liner President Hoover, the largest passenger ship ever built in America. Amplifiers carry the Scotch burr fore and aft and clear down into the bunkers and it is a perfect day for "Cappy Ricks" of Peter B. Kyne's sea tales. Captain Dollar says he never waits for his ship to come in—he sends it out, soundly insured and competently manned, and he knows it will come back.

In the early eighties, a stranger dropped into Captain Dollar's coastwise shipping office in San Francisco and said: "Ships are romance. The further you go, the more romance. You ought to sail your ships to the Orient." The stranger was Bret Harte. Captain Dollar never admitted it was the casual remark of a poet which sent his ships to far seas, but, at any rate, he weighed the stragner's words and made up his mind. His 45 years of world-girdling —every ship with a pay cargo and a bone in her teeth—started soon thereafter.

The thrifty Scotch lad from Falkirk was a cook's helper in a Michigan lumber camp at 11. He saved his money, entered the lumber business, first in Michigan and then in California, and bought a tiny ship, the Newsboy, to carry his lumber. That was the beginning of his great merchant fleet. He is more than six feet tall, slightly stooped, with broad shoulders, white hair and beard and a strongly lined and ruddy face. His sensitive goatee bristies and stands like an inverted fetlock when he is suddenly aroused or interested. He works ten hours a day, hates whiskey and labor unions, and pores over his Bible.

The world's largest amphibian plane, built by Igor Sikorsky, makes two successful test flights at Bridgeport, Conn. The plump, bald, hesitant and gentle dreamer who made it smiles and is happy. When he was a boy building cardboard ships in Russia, he projected veritable dinosaurs of the air, insisting that airplanes would be built to carry a hundred persons. At 24, he was the beardless father of Russian aviation, building huge bombers for the Czar.

Wrecked by the war, Sikorsky removed to America soon after the armistice, and earned his living lecturing, chiefly before Y. M. C. A. audiences. Rachmaninoff, the pianist, and other Russians, gathered $100,000 to start him building airships again. His huge S-35 was to have taken Rene Fonck to France, but it crashed on the runway and two men were burned to death. He began patiently building again—one ship that carried two grand pianos from New York to Washington. He is a pioneer in multi-engined planes and has built many successful planes. He has a Charlie Chaplin moustache and is the gentlest man who ever made a bomber. His father was professor of psychology at the University of Kiev.

Building Permits

Two building permits were issued Friday by John N. Welland, building inspector. They were granted to Anton Schneider, 140 S. Weimer-st, residence, cost $8,700; and Edward Panzer, move two car garage 925 W. Packard-st, cost $10.

APPLETON ROTARIANS RETURN FROM ASSEMBLY

Local Rotarians have returned from the assembly of district executives of Rotary International, held at Green Bay Thursday and Friday. Those who attended were G. E. Buchanan, president, F. G. Moyle, secretary; A. C. Denney, John Brill, D. Edward Wilton, and Kenneth Corbett.

Theft of an engine for a milking machine was reported to Sheriff John Laopen, by Art Smith, Bear Creek. The engine was purchased Friday and stolen Friday night. The sheriff is working on several clews.

ASSURE 120TH BAND H. S. IS NO COMPETITOR

H. S. Musicians Limited to Demonstrating Ability to Public

Expressing its desire to cooperate with the 120th Field Artillery band, the board of education at its meeting Friday night adopted a resolution prohibiting the Appleton high school band from providing musical entertainment for any individual or organization engaged in an enterprise for profit. The action was the answer to a request from the artillery band that the high school band be restricted from competing commercially.

The high school band will be allowed to play at school functions and activities, and for civic, patriotic and educational organizations for the purpose of demonstrating to the public the progress of the band. High school band uniforms will be provided from the funds of the high school, with the aid of any contributions which are accepted as gifts.

The resolution states that the board "appreciates the excellence and high standing of the Appleton Artillery band, its great worth to the community and the high honors and praise it has received from the people of surrounding and distant states where it has played in competition with some of the best bands of the country, and therefore feels that the artillery band deserves the financial and moral support of all citizens of Appleton to the end that nothing should be permitted which might impair or lessen its eminence and usefulness."

Miss Alvira Van Ooyen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Van Ooyen, Meade-st, was engaged to teach the second grade at the Jefferson school. Miss Sophie Cohen, whom she succeeds, has resigned to be married.

The repair of the pump at the Columbus school, requested by Sixth ward residents who wish to use the water from the artesian well, was referred to the maintenance committee. It will be necessary to pump out stagnant water which has been standing for almost three years, and then, if analysis proves the water pure, the pump will be repaired.

New fibre flooring will be placed in the high school library, and the old linoleum in the library will be used in the central office and on stairways. Guards will be placed around the boiler rooms at Roosevelt and Wilson junior high schools, bells will be purchased for the First Ward school, and minor repairs will be made at the Ortheopedic school.

Bills allowed for July totalled $18,726.

FRAWLEY CASE GOES TO UPPER BRANCH

Man Charged With Intent to Rob Will Be Tried on Sept. 4

John Frawley, 54, who claims Chicago as his place of residence was bound over to the upper branch of Municipal court Friday afternoon when his case was called before Judge Fred V. Heinemann. Frawley is charged with intent to rob the Baptist church, Sunday night, July 26. The case will be heard in the upper branch Sept. 4. Frawley was sent back to county jail on default of $1,000 bond.

Frawley was arrested shortly after he was seen leaving the church through a window. His hat and coat and burglary tools were found in the church. He recently wrote a letter to church officers saying he was victim of a plot by Tammany hall ring, New York, because of documents he possesses which would wreck the ring and Al Smith's chances for election to the presidency in 1932.

Appleton police have learned the man has a record that includes almost everything from petty burglary to postoffice robbery and has served sentence in several prisons.

CONSIDER STATUS OF BANK AT SHEBOYGAN

Sheboygan —(AP)— Two plans for adjustment of the Sheboygan County Mutual Savings bank were evolved yesterday at a meeting of about 600 depositors.

The bank was closed last February by the state banking department after charges that Hugo Darnider, secretary, had manipulated bank funds.

The depositors suggested either the bank funds be liquidated or a reorganization be perfected. Herman Schuelke, former mayor, was authorized to appoint 18 persons from which a committee of nine will be selected to determine the best policy. C. F. Schwenker, state banking commissioner, said the depositors would lose about 36 per cent through liquidation and would probably gain more by reorganization.

MILLIONS OF DEAD FISH BRING PROBLEM

Beverly, Mass. —(AP)— Squads of Beverly health department workers struggled today to bury the millions of dead herring and hake that came in at high tide Monday.

Huge mounds of the dead fish extended a mile and a half along the beach in the vicinity of Bass river, where one of the most exclusive summer resorts along the north shore is situated. Summer residents were moving temporarily to less offensive quarters.

Fishermen said the herring and hake were driven to the New England coast by larger fish and were unable to get off the sand flats when the tide went out.

BURLINGTON CAFE OWNER IS ROBBED

Burlington—(AP)—Two men early today held up Julio Marsili, proprietor of the Elite cafe here, and escaped with between $300 and $400 in cash.

Ten Million Face Famine After Flood

Shanghai —(AP)— Declaring 10,000,000 dwellers in the flooded valleys of central China face starvation before spring unless aid is given them, John Earl Baker suggested today that part of the United States Farm Board's surplus wheat be poured into China under long term credit arrangements.

Baker, advisor to the ministry of railways in Nanking, told the Associated Press correspondent the present floods probably constituted China's most terrible disaster in the present century.

Baker directed international relief work in the Shensi and Kansu famine region in 1930. He estimated damage of the present floods would total $300,000,000.

He refused even to guess at the death toll and said the Nanking government had not begin a serious survey.

Elaborating his suggestion that American wheat be loaned to China, Baker estimated at least 5,000,000 bushels monthly would be required for a period of six months or more.

"Wheat could be shipped to China under credit arrangements between the American and Chinese governments," Baker said. "Some critics may insist the Chinese government's promissary notes would be of little value, but certainly the wheat the farm board is holding is of little value to anyone in America while it could save many lives in China.

"Such relief wheat should be distributed in the form of wages to the refugee laborers restoring dykes, digging new river channels and perhaps building new roads to traverse the afflicted regions.

"The areas actually flooded emgrace a population of fifty millions. I estimate that fully ten millions of persons escaped the inundation of their homes only with what they were able to carry on their backs.

"These people shortly will be destitute and without food until the new crop can be harvested."

HERO OF DOGDOM DURING WORLD WAR DIES IN GEORGIA

Macon, Ga.—(AP)—An old soldier, Jim Whiskey Nazaire, is dead.

It was not so long ago that Jim Whiskey Nazaire came out of the World war the toast of dogdom. Three times the dog was cited by the French for whom he served —once for rescuing a party of French soldiers, again for speedy delivery of a dispatch and a third time for "displaying almost human intelligence."

That was after he had been wounded in action at Argonne.

Harry E. Pape, then a captain of infantry, bought Whiskey at the close of the war and brought him to his home here. His owner announced Jim Whiskey's death yesterday.

Jim Whiskey was born in France in 1917. Five puppies survive him.

FAMOUS WARRIOR DIES IN DAKOTA

Red Tomahawk, Slayer of Sitting Bull, Succumbs on Reservation

Mandan, N. D. —(AP)— There was grief among the Indians of the Standing Rock reservation near Cannon Ball today, for Red Tomahawk was dead.

The old warrior, accredited by many North Dakota historians with the slaying of the famous Indian leader, Sitting Bull, died last night on the reservation. No one knew his exact age thought it was supposed to be somewhere in the 80's.

Red Tomahawk was a member of the Hunkpaapa-Blackfoot tribe of the federated Sioux, belonging to the division of the Tintonwannas.

It was in the early dawn of Dec. 15, 1908, that Red Tomahawk was given credit for killing Sitting Bull. With 42 police Red Tomahawk set out to quell Sitting Bull's uprising. After a vicious battle in which the police leaders had been killed together with Sitting Bull and his son, Crowfoot, Red Tomahawk and his cohorts retained their position in the hostile camp until military authorities arrived and definitely ended the uprising.

Red Tomahawk had made two visits to Washington at the invitation of high officials during recent years and last year was honored by the North Dakota legislature.

Meating Voyagers To Arrive Home Monday

BULLETIN

Quebec, Canada — The special train with the Meating voyagers will arrive in Appleton early Monday morning. The definite time will not be known until late today.

BY H. K. DERUS

Aboard S. S. Montrose, Friday, Aug. 7—The Meating pilgrimage to Europe is almost over and has proved more successful than the most optimistic pictured it would be. Since leaving Appleton, teachers have seen a succession of amazing and marvelous scenes and sights about which they read, studied and taught, including Liverpool, London, Folkstone, Bolougne, Paris, Brussels, Antwerp, and others.

It seems months instead of weeks since the party left home. The group is truly one big happy family. There has been dancing, deck games, bridge, reading, shuffle board, ship concerts, breakfast and bouillon at 11 o'clock in the morning, tea at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, motion pictures, rough seas, plenty of foghorn, and seasickness. Clocks were set back an hour Friday night.

Many of the sea terms such as four bells, logs, doing turn about the deck and others were foreign to the group when the pilgrimage started but they're not new now. Thousands of pages of notes have been written, hundreds of diaries filled, scads of postcards sent, and there were last minute wires home for additional funds.

The lure of the English, French and Belgan shops was probably too much for some of the voyagers. Hundreds of packages packed in trunks marked a trail of shopping which members of the party left in their wake.

We have been on the ocean for seven days. We hated to leave Europe, but after all we're glad to get home again. Nothing can make you appreciate home they say, like being far away from it.

The boat sailed from Antwerp last Friday and arrived at Southampton the next morning where it picked up a few more passengers. It stopped for several hours while many passengers went ashore to do some last minute shopping. Shortly afternoon it sailed for Cherbourg where a tender brought 130 passengers abroad, among whom was a large party of Michigan teachers, who had just completed a trip similar to the Meating tour.

As the boat sailed from Cherbourg into the Atlantic, the decks were crowded with passengers who wanted to get a last glimpse of Ireland and small groups of islands off the coast as the boat passed.

The S. S. Montrose is a little larger and faster than the Minnedosa which took the voyagers to Europe. The first day the ship traveled 316 miles, 417 on the second, third 405, fourth 407, fifth 416 and sixth 155.

Land was sighted off the Straits of Bell Isles yesterday. The Empress of Britain passed us last night and it was a great sight. Luckily the fog lifted yesterday so the voyagers could get a good view of the mammoth ship.

The second day at sea was very rough, and as the boat rolled 75 members of the Meating party went to their beds with seasickness. Several members of the ship's crew also were stricken. The rough spell lasted only one day however, and most of the sick voyagers have recovered and are now feeling "chipper."

Plans for landing are not yet definite, but if the ship continues as it has been going without delays, the Montrose is due to dock in Quebec some time Saturday evening. It will remain there for a few hours and then sail for Montreal, arriving some time Sunday.

A special train will be waiting for the party at Montreal for the rail trip home. The rail trip is scheduled to start at once and should get members of the party in Appleton Monday. Definite word on the time the train is due to arrive in Appleton is to be sent from Quebec some time Saturday.

OPEN POSTOFFICE ON SATURDAY AFTERNOONS

Effective Saturday, Aug. 15 the postoffice will be open until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoons, it was announced this morning by Postmaster Emmery Greunke. He said that a recent survey conducted in the office has revealed that the amount of business between 1 and 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoons would not justify closing the office.

After 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon patrons can take their mail to the various sub-stations in the city, he stated. The sub-stations are located at the Thoms book store, 225 E. College-ave; Clements Radio shop, 618 W. College-ave and Kuether Bros. store, 336 W. Wisconsin-ave.

JULE-ST ABANDONED AS THOROUGHFARE

With the publication of the ordinance passed by the common council Wednesday evening, Jule-st will be no longer used as a city street. The street, which formerly divided the old Denhardt plat, will be closed to permit the replatting of the area into North Park Manor plat. All of the street except 267.48 feet will be discontinued.

MAENNERCHOR PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Appleton Maennerchor is to be held Sunday at Erb park for members, their families and friends. A delegation of members of the Fond du Lac chor are expected to attend the outing. A program of games and stunts has been arranged for the affair.

RAGS AND JUNK INDICATE PICK UP IN BUSINESS

Old Clothes, Cars, Shoes Have Been Worn So Long They Must Be Replaced

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass. — Swelling rag bags and rising junk piles tell as much about business recovery as do the usual indicators such as carloadings, bank clearings, and unfilled steel orders. People have been wearing out old clothes, old tires, old cars, old shoes, etc., for so long that they must now replace with new. Already we see the stimulating effects of replacement demand in the tire business, cotton cloth industry, woolen goods, and shoes and leather. These things are consumers' good, which mean they are things that are rapidly used up, as contrasted with other things, like buildings, machinery, iron and steel, etc., which are producers' goods and which last much longer. Production has now been running below consumption for about twenty months Replacement buying in these lines is beginning to furnish the impetus for general business improvement, which, while it will be slow and irregular, should, nevertheless, soon get underway.

Automobile tires was one of the hardest hit of all industries in the depression. In the boom days people used to put on a new tire long before the old one blew out, but for the past two years they have patched tires up and waited for the "bang." Apparently too many tires have now exploded at the same time. As a result tire production after deducting the usual seasonal increase, has advanced thirty per cent since the first of the year. Cotton cloth started to gain last summer and has moved steadily upward, production advancing sixty-eight per cent since this time last year. Underwear has advanced about 7 per cent. Shoe output has moved strongly upward, gaining about 21 per cent. All of these are real net gains, purely seasonal influences having been taken out of the figures. Furthermore, they indicate that it is the consumers' industries, the "repeat" business, which will be the ones to recover first from the depression.

Prices and Inventories Well Liquidated

Business can start recovery from this point on a sound basis because, in general, prices and inventories are thoroughly deflated. There still remains some readjustments to be made in retail prices in certain lines and the longer such reductions are delayed the longer buying will hold off. Bear in mind that the industries now showing the most life are those where prices have been most thoroughly reduced. For example, while average cost of living is down 10 per cent from a year ago, retail dry goods are down 20½ per cent; shoes are down 17 per cent; men's furnishings are down 15 per cent; food is down 19 per cent. These are the lines that are doing best at present. Also, I am impressed with the very low inventories prevailing in many finished products. I mean inventories all down the line, including goods in the hands of manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, and the public.

Every month for the past year and a half has shown a drop in department store inventories compared with the corresponding month of the year previous. In June, 1931, stocks of merchandise were 14 per cent below June, 1930. Especially low retail stocks prevail in furniture, hosiery, women's and misses' wear, luggage and leather goods, silks, and woolen goods. Supplies in these lines range from 14 per cent to 23 per cent below last year. Low supplies are even more pronounced in wholesale lines. Seven basic lines of goods in wholesalers' and jobbers' warehouses show an average reduction of 22 per cent from last year. Lines showing greatest reductions are shoes, cotton goods, and silk goods, with lesser reductions in other products.

With supplies of finished goods so low in merchants' and consumers' hands, it is plain to see that even a moderate increase in consumer buying may cause a scramble for goods. This would at once be reflected in stepping up of manufacturing and employment, because the factories are also low on stocks, having liquidated inventories drastically during the past year. Balance sheets for June 30 are not yet out for many corporations, but those at the end of 1930 showed what the trend has been. Inventories of 259 industrial concerns at the year-end were 13 per cent below the previous year, and in view of the low rate of production in the past six months, are probably 25 per cent lower now.

There is just as much money in the country as there ever was. The trouble is that it is not circulating fast enough. There are just as many natural resources and raw materials waiting to be made into goods as ever. People need goods now more than they have needed them for the past 10 years. Add to these factors the low inventories of finished goods in merchants' and manufacturers' hands and you have a situation that does not warrant the present black pessimism. Buying has already started in certain lines of consumers' goods. It will gradually spread to other lines. The recovery will be irregular and spotty, with some industries making good progress and others continuing to drag. Business will take on more workers when it feels sure that activity is definitely on the up-grade. As one after another of the basic industries improves, confidence will be restored and employers will again feel like expanding forces. Wholesale commodity prices will show more stability.

Those business concerns will make the best progress in this coming period which regard themselves as employes of their customers, not as employers who can dictate to their customers. Now as never before the consumers' power is absolute. Oftentimes we hear young men say: "I wish I were in business for myself; then I would be my own boss." That is a mistaken notion. No business man is his own boss. The difference is that the business man has hundreds of bosses—his customers—while the workman has but one. I believe general business has turned the corner, but only those concerns which capably and honestly serve the customers' interests are going to be promoted to prosperity.

Business by the Babsonchart is now 29 per cent below normal and 12 per cent below what it was a year ago.

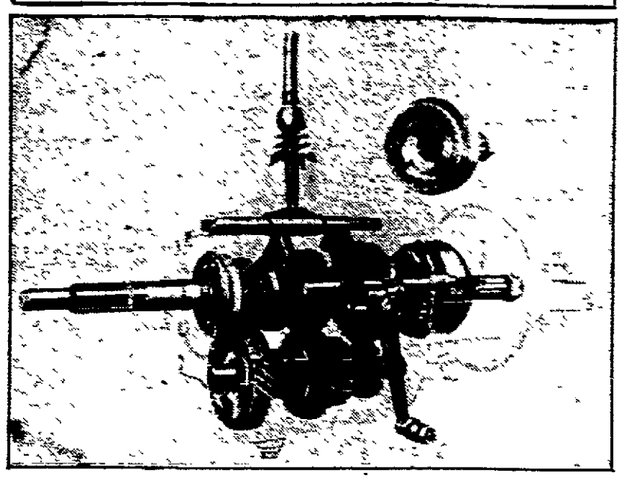
Dodge Free Wheeling Unit



This phantom of the Dodge transmission showing the free wheeling unit at the rear of the transmission case just ahead of the propeller shaft brake. This "three roller" type of Free Wheeling with the sliding collar clutch permits positive and selective Free Wheeling in all forward speeds. See the new Dodge at the Wolter Motor Company, 118 N. Appleton St.

FREE WHEELING ON NEW DODGE AUTOS

Control for Free Wheeling Placed on Dashboard

Dash-controlled Free Wheeling is available now as optional equipment, at $20 extra, on the New Dodge Six and Eight, according to R. K. Wolter of the Wolter Motor Co. 118 N. Appleton Street.

Simultaneously, announcement also is made of a new positive Easy-Shift transmission for the New Dodge Six and Eight.

"Both features were under consideration by Dodge engineers for many months prior to their adoption," said Mr. Wolter. "By mounting the Free Wheeling unit back of the transmission and placing the control button on the dash, Dodge engineers have strikingly eliminated the objection of many motorists who claimed that they had to 'feel' their way around through the gears to be sure whether the transmission was in Free Wheeling or in conventional gear. With the control placed on the dash all doubt in this regard is removed because if this button is in, the transmission is in Free Wheeling; if it is out, it is in conventional gear."

Contrary to the general belief of many, according to Mr. Wolter reverse gear is in no way affected by Free Wheeling. With the Dodge unit, when the transmission is in the Free Wheeling position and the driver wishes to back up, he can do so simply by de-clutching and putting the transmission in reverse. In so doing he automatically releases the Free Wheeling unit, thus putting the transmission into conventional gear.

Regarding braking when in the Free Wheeling position, Mr. Wolter points out that the positive action of the four-wheel internal expanding hydraulic brakes with which Dodge Brothers cars are equipped insures absolute safety and sufficient road-ability.

"The New Dodge positive Easy-Shift transmission is in every phase of construction a purely Dodge Brothers development and does not employ the use of synchronizing cones, discs or plates. It is very simply constructed and since it does not consist of any additional parts, there is nothing to interfere with or prevent it from operating as designed. "Furthermore," Mr. Wolter said in conclusion, "its simplicity eliminates the necessity of added maintenance costs in achieving the thrill of easy shifting."

STATE GAS RECEIPTS CONTINUE TO DOUBLE

Madison —(AP)—Gasoline tax receipts continue to bring in more than double the former revenue on the tax, which was increased from two to four cents a gallon last spring, according to the monthly report issued by Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, today.

Receipts in June showed $1,744,534.28 as compared with $849,818.55. A doubled figure also was shown in May, but in April, the first month the tax was effective, the sum collected failed to show a 100 per cent increase, although the advance was large.

Mr. Levitan's report which showed the state's balance on Aug. 1 to be $22,654,654.34 as compared with $22,324,593 55 on July 1, also listed the general fund as comprising the bulk of the money. Under the terms of a bill passed by the last legislature, many former funds were com-

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON UNEMPLOYMENT COMPLETES STUDY

Intensive Research in State Conditions Brings Out 7 Conclusions

Madison—(AP)— Seven conclusions have been drawn from an intensive study of unemployment relief over the state by the citizen's committee on employment, now disbanded, according to Miss Florence Peterson, acting director of unemployment research with the industrial commission, who is compiling the findings for publication.

The conclusions are:

1. An adequate staff for investigating and administering relief is essential in every city and county.
2. The administration of relief, either directly or indirectly, should be absolutely divorced from political influence.
3. There should be a definite understanding and settlement regarding the scope and responsibility of each agency in each community.
4. A confidential exchange or centralized record system should be maintained which all agencies should be required to use.
5. Wherever practicable, the same agency should make all investigation, decide the needs and then allocate the case to the proper agency.
6. All records pertaining to individuals and families should be kept confidential and relief should be disbursed with the least possible amount of publicity.
7. All prolonged cases of need should be financed by tax supported agencies.

Miss Peterson said today that single persons are being discriminated against throughout the state in unemployment relief. She says that in many cities it is "blindly assumed" that they have homes somewhere and should "move on."

She pointed out, however, that Superior give unemployed, homeless men $10 a month, and provides shacks for them, LaCrosse uses vacant summer cottages to house men in the winter, while Kenosha follows the same policy with regard to single men as they do with families by providing reasonable rent and food allowances.

Certain cities in the state, notably Eau Claire, Superior and Chippewa Falls have made loans with no or small interest rates to families that are pressed for money, Miss Peterson reported.

BOND HOUSES

The Interim Banking Committee created by the last legislature has power, according to the law creating it, to "consider needed amendments in our banking laws and measures which will more amply protect the investing and borrowing public of this state."

This appears to be broad enough language to authorize it to make careful inquiry concerning practices obtaining in socalled bond or underwriting houses.

The failure of the house of Hackett, Hoff & Thiermann, of Milwaukee, and the apparently great resulting loss to those who trusted in its solvency is a thing that is within the proper sphere of the law to prevent.

Evidence adduced at the bankruptcy hearings shows that this concern would underwrite a bond issue on business blocks, apartments or other buildings, secure the due execution and delivery to it of the bonds to be issued, sell them to the investing public and gamble with the money during the period that the borrower was constructing and using but part of the funds.

As a result listed assets carried on its books at $1,230,000 are expected to produce about 10 per cent of that amount.

The fact that its officers are guilty of embezzlement, as are all persons who misdirect the use of funds committed to their care, is not of much satisfaction to the losers, although punishment should follow swiftly in these cases.

The duty of the state, of any government, is to take steps, forewarned by abuses and failures of this sort, to prevent their recurrence.

It should not be a difficult thing to put these security concerns directly under the control of the department of banking, subject to the same examinations, and, because of safeguards that must be constructed in our present banking laws, make dealings with them comparatively safe.

That most of these underwriting concerns are operated upon an honorable basis is no answer to the problem. They should be the first ones to willingly accept state control, for it is the maverick in any sort of business who creates a shadow of distrust that hangs over the good as well as the bad.

DOG DAYS

Dog days are here. We watch the pup with discriminating eye, alert to the slightest variance with his standard modes of living. Does he bark with unusual gusto at the sound of unfamiliar footsteps or loll his tongue to uncommon lengths, the advice of a veterinarian is sought, or perhaps a muzzle is added to his already insufferable burdens.

In his dumb innocence he cannot know that man's suspicion of him at this time of the year is born of the coincidental rising of the sun and Sirius, the Dog Star. The ancients thought this caused the hottest weather, and even to modern times, it designated the period when dogs go mad.

Dog days are hot days. usually the hottest of the year. They are days for caution, care and good judgment. It behooves the master to watch himself as well as his dog.

They are days for cool baths and not much to eat except green stuff and fruits. True dog days are those in which the temperature is high and the air filled with humidity. It is time to go slow and wait with expectant faith for those northern breezes which bring welcome relief.

Fortunately cool dog days are interspersed with the hot to remind us that life is still worth living; like the flea which keeps the dog from being introspective of his own dog's life.

SHAW IN RUSSIA

George Bernard Shaw's recent visit to Russia confirms the opinion of his critics that his usual role is one of enmity to tradition. Because thousands of millions of people have believed something true, that was sufficient cause for him to express disbelief.

Shaw expressed great satisfaction with what he saw in Russia. "I hated to leave Russia for Berlin, and can't bear to think of having to go back to London," says he. "Capitalism is doomed. The bankers have made a mess of things. They have been playing with theories and apparently they don't know the first thing about their business. Any child knows the world can't exist on credit."

During the war Shaw actually praised the Germans for "treating a scrap of paper as a scrap of paper."

Of course he knows it is unbusinesslike to treat a scrap of paper as a scrap of paper. Let him try it with a check or banknote or contract. The world does live on credit and depends on the sanctity of scraps of paper.

Mr. Shaw always has something to say and enjoys saying it. A lot of it is nonsense and he knows it.

In Russia his short sojourn disclosed the high spots of the communistic development along with the shining lights among the proletarian dictators.

Theoretically the one form of private property in which a socialist can freely indulge is blowing his own trumpet. Shaw's proclivities in this respect are well known.

Practically, however, it is usually the capitalistic state which the socialist is attempting to destroy which gives him this privilege.

Should Shaw forego the "torture of returning to London" and take up his domicile in Russia he would find that his trumpet must play a particular tune, or maintain a discreet silence. Stalinism and the Ogpu would see to that.

Shaw would not like that for it would deprive him of his stock in trade. So he returns to Berlin and London, not because he is old, as he says, but because of his great admiration for George Bernard Shaw.

MEXICO BANS GOLD STANDARD

Many countries normally operating on the gold standard are having difficulty in meeting their financial obligations. The recent British report of the MacMillan committee on industry and finance, with comments of financial experts regarding it, asserts that the gold standard is too rigid and that many countries are undergoing extraordinary hardships by reason of falling prices and their inability to acquire and maintain a supply of gold; that the concentration of gold in France and the United States is leading to the break-down of the gold standard; and that "the whole world is face to face with the prospect of at least partial repudiation of debts."

Faced with this situation, Mexico has just taken drastic action. Being a debtor country, she has a scarcity of gold but a large surplus of silver. The cheap price of silver creates a heavy financial burden in meeting obligations which are payable in gold.

Mexico has passed a law retiring gold from circulation and making silver the only legal tender. While this will have no effect on foreign obligations payable in gold, it means that all domestic debts may be paid in silver, which will materially reduce them, to the great advantage of the debtor. It constitutes a debt repudiation to the extent of the difference in price between silver and gold.

The effect in Mexico will doubtless be an increase in the price of silver and commodities, but at the same time the producer will pay correspondingly higher prices for the things he has to buy.

Mexico's action may influence other partially bankrupt states to do likewise and add impetus to a rapidly developing agitation for a bimetallic standard.

Even in the United States we may expect to see a revival of the old discussion for the free coinage of gold and silver at a fixed legal ratio, so familiar to that which passed through the campaign of 1896, when the silver tongued orator unsuccessfully fought for the equality of the white metal.

Hollywood Screenings

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—An intimate-as-possible sketch of the great Garbo, according to one of the very few intimates to whom Greta has personally autographed a portrait:

She has square shoulders, a Prussian stride, eyes that catch the green of the sea and sometimes photograph black.

She wears low heeled shoes, sports clothes, displays no jewelry, not even a wrist watch, and berets are her usual headgear.

She is timid, shrinks from strange eyes. She likes jazz music and broad humor, swimming, sunbathing, horseback-riding, hiking, tennis, good food.

Hard Worker

Few people at her studio ever have spoken to her, and she has spoken to fewer. Her arrival there creates almost as much excitement as it would in a party of fans.

When she is working she works hard, otherwise she vanishes completely as far as the studio is concerned. If she wishes she could have a pretentious dressing room, like other stars, but she does not.

When she goes to the photographer's gallery for portrait sittings she sits for several hundred at a session—all day and two days if necessary. She is pleasant about it.

She is moody, often silent for a whole day; other times she is bubbling and buoyant, and her laughter, when she laughs, is robust.

She smokes cigarettes treated to remove the nicotine. She never wears her hair "Garbo-style" off-screen. She owns no property, adores children, reads anything and everything, particularly books she thinks hold potential screen values.

In fan magazines stories about herself bring amusement. She still spurns interviews, but likes people to write nice things about her.

Ice Cream and Anchovies

She hates button shoes and fidgety people annoy her.

She devours ice cream cones—favorite flavor is vanilla—and roast turkey is her favorite dish. She likes, too, Italian spaghetti and anchovies.

She rides today in the same car she had four years ago. She never goes to big parties, but enjoys small gatherings of friends.

She is a theater fan, especially fond of puppet shows, and sees all the movies at neighborhood houses. She is 23, impulsive, easily touched by sympathy and usually says it with flowers.

She probably never said "Me, I go home!" and has no intention of doing so—pictures or no pictures. She takes snapshots to send home to Ma Gustaffson.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

FAMILY BRIDGE

Three years ago she trumped my ace,
But, oh, so lovely was her face,
So fair she seemed to be,
I never said a word, but smiled
To such a blunder reconciled.
Just sweethearts then were we.

Later I well recall I made,
A discard of a larger spade;
A diamond she returned!
Since she had named our wedding day.
I did not criticize her play
Though inwardly I burned.

Last night she did a foolish thing:
Three times she underled a king.
"No brains behind that brow?"
I think it was I said, and she Came right back with a crack at me:
"Yes, we are married now."

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SOME OF US ARE VAGS AND SOME OF US ARE SYMPS.

In running an arbitrary line to divide the hypers from the hypos the other day, no doubt we impaled quite a few folk who are just normal or average and refuse to be so classified. In order to relieve those who are neither hypos nor hypers, we'll propose another division of mankind into types today, according to the predominance of the sympathetic or the vagus portion of the autonomic or involuntary nervous system in the temperament and make-up.

Pray do not be frightened if you don't understand what the sympathetic or vagus portion of the involuntary or autonomic nervous system is As we proceed you'll see it doesn't matter, and I'm not sure I understand much about it myself, only I rather like to roll these imposing terms off my chest now and then, being a doctor. Suffice to say that the autonomic nervous system presides over functions which are beyond control of the will, such as the beating of the heart, the regulation of the breathing, and the secretory functions of the ductless glands. This autonomic nervous system is composed of the sympathetic portion on the one hand and the vagus portion on the other, and the one portion acts to antagonize, balance or steady the other.

An individual in whom the sympathetic influence predominates (call him a symp for short, not a "simp") is usually well nourished, warm handed, dry skinned, fluffy haired, blond and has small eyes. A symp has a clear but often a pale complexion. He or she is of a "neurasthenic" disposition and must be handled diplomatically lest thon grow restive. Symps are hard customers to please, hard pupils to control, hard patients to treat. They are emotional, quick tempered, fickle, changeable. They have a pulse rate and a body temperature habitually a little higher than the normal average.

Practically all of us have latent tuberculosis. Only a small minority of us with latent tuberculosis ever develop active tuberculosis, and most of these groups are symps. Happily, however, a symp has a better chance to attain arrest of active tuberculosis than does a vag

Technically symps are called "sympathicotonic" and vags "vagotonic"

The vag is typically a young adult who is undernourished, underweight, brunette, has large, clear glistening eyes with small pupils, but is short-sighted. She (usually) has cold hands and cold feet, sweats when the least excited, suffers from hyperacidity of the stomach, heart burn, enlarged tonsils, huskiness of voice and Uriah Heep hands. A vag look like a good subject for tuberculosis yet seldom has it. Vags go in for hay fever, asthma, croupy conditions, sore throat, gallstone colic and eke mucous colitis. They complain of sudden flushing, sticking of food in the gullet, too much saliva, nervous swallowing. Tho commonly described as "nervous" vags are warm hearted, dry-eyed, cool, calm and collected. The pulse rate is usually sixty or less. The body temperature is usually a degree below normal. Vags have a large tolerance for sugar or candy, and usually a large craving for sweets.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What is the cause of sinus trouble and the cure? (Mrs. A. M. M.)

Answer.— Those are two of the things I hope to learn some day, and just as soon as I get even a fair clue I'll break into print about it, I assure you.

Vitamin A For Sensitive Eyes.

Please tell your correspondent who complained about light hurting her eyes to make sure of getting plenty of Vitamin A. I have found that my trouble ceased after I paid more attention to taking foods rich in Vitamin A. Also my hearing which was very poor and which otologists assured me could not be improved, has improved distinctly since I began getting more Vitamin A. (Miss M. E. H.)

Answer — Thank you It sounds plausible enough Foods rich in Vitamon A: Butter fat, egg yolk cream or fresh milk, spinach, watercress, lettuce, carrots, sweet potatoes, oranges, yellow corn, liver, kidney, sweetbreads.

Time to Feed the Baby.

My baby since birth has been troubled with constipation. She was breast fed, and is now 2 years old. Orange juice, prune juice, oatmeal, graham crackers seem to have no special effect. I am now giving her a teaspoonful of (a hifalutin nostrum) daily . . . have also given her much pain mineral oil, but little castor oil. (Mrs. D. W. T.)

Answer— Still you're all wrong What the baby needs, and should have received away back when she was four months old, is food. I believe every infant, breast fed or hand raised, that tends to be constipated, should receive a daily ration of well ripened banana raw. It is a sad day when you resort to nostrums to induce the imitation of natural bowel function, especially when bananas are so cheap and so healthful for infants who do not thrive.

A Long While After.

Is it possible for a weakness of the voice, especially after eating, to be caused by pressing of the stomach again the diaphragm? (S. V. A.)

Answer—That might explain it in some bad cases two or three weeks after eating. Singers and speakers have better voices if they eat only lightly before a performance, and fill up with a real dinner after the show.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

SAID Clowny, "It's a moonlight night and I think it would be all right to camp beneath this big flame tree. I'm sure we'd all sleep sound. If we each had a blanket, we would be as comfy as could be. It's very seldom that a piece as nice as this is found."

"That's not a bad idea, son, and I am sure it can be done," replied the kindly Travel Man. "You Tinymites wait here. I'll find the owner of this ground and I feel certain, when he's found, that he will gladly let us stay. Then there'll be naught to fear."

The owner was a friendly man He promptly said, "You bet you can! And I will give you blankets so the Tinies won't get chilled" And so that night they all slept sound. At dawn they jumped up with a bound and, gazing at the sunrise, every single one was thrilled.

They walked back into town and then sat down to a fine meal again. Right after they had finished Mister Travel Man said, "We are going to Guadalupe today and on that Island we will stay just long enough to see some sights. It's wondrous as can be."

They sailed away that afternoon. Said Clowny, "Will we be there soon? And how big is the island? Gee! I'll bet we'll have some fun!" The Travel Man said, "Wait and see! With questions please don't pester me. As soon as we arrive there, on a long beach you can run."

At last they reached the island queer. The Tinymites let out a cheer. It didn't take them long to land and, as they looked around, a rock wren swooped around a bit and then on Clowny's shoulder lit. Wee Clowny cried, "Gee! It is tame. A new friend I have found."

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — So far as known, Arthur Capper, the senior senator from Kansas, never expressed publicly in Washington how it felt to have a democratic colleague sitting across the aisle from him.

Senator Capper is not the type who talks a great deal, either on or off the floor of the senate.

Usually he sits at his desk far down in front, fingering a huge sheaf of paper, penciling from time to time notes on a pad, seemingly oblivious as to what goes on around him.

It's been a long time since Kansas has had anyone but a republican in the senate. Vice President Curtis sat there continuously from 1915 until he gave up his seat to mount the president's dais. Even then Henry Allen, staunchest of republicans, took the seat Curtis vacated. And Capper himself is about to begin on his third term.

So when George McGill, a democrat, came in last December, Curtis, the vice president, and Capper, the senior senator, must have had curious thoughts, whether they expressed them or not.

"Strange Sensation"

That Capper, at least, had a "strange sensation" in serving with a democratic colleague, he now admits. He said so in Kansas the other day and in McGill's presence, too.

It was at Topeka when he was called upon to introduce McGill to a group of his fellow townsmen.

"I had a strange sensation when I conduct Senator McGill down the senate aisle last December to be shown in," confessed Capper. "It was a strange spectacle to see a republican Kansas senator escorting a democrat to the president's chair to be sworn in as senator from Kansas."

McGill is reported to have grinned while Capper was speaking, then arising to his feet came back with "The senior senator may have felt strange emotions, but so did I. There was a big crowd there and everyone seemed to want to see what I looked like.

"But at the same time, by own feelings were decidedly pleasant — and I look forward to making the trip again in the near future. It will be a great pleasure, I can assure you, Senator Capper, and all of you"

(McGill comes up for reelection in 1933)

What both of the Kansas senators had in the back of their heads when they were talking of "strange sensations," and "strange emotions" was probably not altogether political Perhaps they both were thinking of the physical contrast they presented that morning.

Capper is diminutive, one of the thinnest of senators McGill is large, tall, bald-headed and powerful.

RUSSIAN MILITARY REPORT

On Aug. 8, 1917, the causes of the military collapse in Russia were set forth in a report by Colonel Kolotkoff to the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates. He placed the responsibility on the former policemen, gendarmes and spies of Emperor Nichols at the front.

The army on the west front, according to Kolotkoff, was in excellent fighting trim technically, and was beyond criticism as regards supplies. There was a plan to advance which might have led to the capture of Vilna, but spies of the autocracy started a counter revolutionary campaign against the provisional government, the aim of which was to break up the army.

Large numbers of spies managed to get elected to company committees, and started a propaganda against officers and the provisional government's commissaries.

Germany took advantage of these conditions and flooded Russian trenches with spies in Russian uniform. Many of these Germans spoke Russian so well that they sat at the officers' mess without arousing suspicion. The result of all this was that as the attempt was started to recover Vilna many soldiers, completely Germanized in sentiment, refused to participate in the attack.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Arthur Garfield Hays is advancing upon what he terms the movie evils with a sword in each hand—one for the censors, the other for the producers.

In his opinion it is as necessary to rid the industry of the production practice of distorting the author's story as it is to free the producers of the threat of censorship.

He says he will take his two sensational film cases to the highest court, if necessary, to achieve his aims.

The goals are correlated because, in many instances, where the producers have adapted outstanding literature to the screen, fear of censorship has caused them to effect their changes in the scripts.

Hays, who was one of the defense counsel in the hilarious Tennessee "monkey trial," represents Clarence Darrow, also of that counsel, in the fight to over-ride deletions ordered by the New York censors in Darrow's film, "The Mystery of Life."

Fight To The End

Darrow, who previously exhorted producers to take a firm stand against censorship, enlisted in the making of this "drama of evolution," it now appears, in anticipation of a fight to the end with the shear wielders.

A picture in which controversial ideas were involved, rather than moral issues, was more suitable to his purpose.

But victories over censorship, wherever it rears its head in connection with this film, will strengthen the will of producers of fictional films, the liberal leaders believe.

Hays' other case, of course, is that against the producers of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy." Dreiser maintains that the theme of his momentous novel was entirely robbed of its significance in the Hollywood talkie version. He seeks to enjoin the company from presenting its picture to the public.

GIRL DRIVER IS EXONERATED BY APPAL INQUEST

Fatal Accident Held Unavoidable by Coroner's Jury

Neenah—A verdict of "unavoidable accident" was returned Friday afternoon by the coroner's jury following the inquest in the death of Simon Appal who was run down last Monday afternoon by a car driven by Miss Beth Brokaw. Miss Brokaw, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Brokaw, was held blameless for the accident.

Howard Boerson and George Voeltz, Postal telegraph messengers, said they saw Mr. Appal walk into the street from behind parked cars, saw him struck by the car and they helped put him in Miss Brokaw's car which hurried him to the hospital. Neither boy could say how fast the car was traveling at the time. Dr. T. D. Smith testified the injured skull was the cause of death. Other witnesses were Miss Margaret Brown and Miss Helen Smiley, the latter of Appleton, passengers in the car, and Mrs. Harold Mertz, who was in a car across the street.

Miss Brokaw said she was operating her car on a special permit issued by an Oshkosh judge, and that she was on her way home at the time of the accident. She testified she sounded the horn when she saw Mr. Appal start out upon the street, thinking he would stop. When he did not she applied the brakes and skidded. Her car, she said, stopped almost immediately as the body was laying near the front wheel.

INDUSTRIAL GIRLS TO CAMP NEAR WAUPACA

Neenah—The weekend camp for industrial girls in the twin cities, to be held Aug. 15 and 16 at Camp Onaway, promises to be the best held by the "Y" since the idea was inaugurated several years ago. A large number of girls already have registered for the event. Three questions uppermost in the minds of the campers are answered by "Y" officials:

"Can the camper bring girls who are not working in mills?" to which the reply is that every industrial girl in the twin cities and nearly communities may be a part of the camp and may bring as many girl friends as she wishes.

"Can one group have a tent together?" to which the reply is that any group of girls numbering from four to eight may tent together. All girls will be placed with their friends.

The third question is relative to church services while at camp. Arrangements have been made for a bus into the city of Waupaca to accommodate those wishing to attend mass at the Catholic church. A short religious service will be held on the island for others.

DRAHEIM SPORT NINE GETS FIRST TRIMMING

Neenah—The Draheim Sport team, leaders in the Young Mens' softball league, met its first setback Friday evening when it was defeated by the Stacker-Schmidt team in a 10 inning game by a score of 12 and 9. Both Draheims and Stecker-Schmidts are now tied for first place. At the end of the seven innings the score was 7 all. In the eighth inning both teams tallied two more scores each. Neither side scored in the ninth when it was suggested to call the game on account of darkness. The winners brought in three scores on a long drive which the fielders were unable to see. Throughout the entire game there was but one point difference in the score at any time. The game was witnessed by several hundred fans. There are two more games to be played in the Young Mens' league before the schedule ends. Edward Neubauer and Clarence Toeppler furnished the Draheim battery and Howard Schmidt and Kolgen was the winning team's battery.

800 SEE SECOND PERFORMANCE OF "RIP VAN WINKLE"

Visiting Critics Laud Production as High Above Amateur Play

Menasha—A capacity audience of more than 800 people enthusiastically received the second presentation of "Rip Van Winkle," Winnebago players production, in the city park Friday evening. The third and final performance will be given under the direction of Miss Ruth Dieckhoff at 8:15 Saturday evening.

The musical numbers, aided by favorable weather conditions, were particularly effective in Friday's performance. The success of the vocal selections, given by Miss Joan McGillan as Peterkee, Miss Lucile Pierce as the Goose Girl, and by the three vocal choruses, is attributed by authorities to the work of Mrs. Gladys Thompson Bachman as director of singing. Mrs. Mildred Friday Wright, pianist, Mrs. Lorene West Roberts, violinist, and Emlyn Owen, director of quartet numbers "Rip Van Winkle" is the first play given by the Winnebago players in which music is incorporated, and the innovation has been well received by those in attendance.

More Effective

The play was even more effectively presented than on Thursday, and a similar performance is promised a Saturday's presentation.

Critics from Milwaukee, Waukesha, and other cities lauded the production as high above the average amateur play. The work of Gilbert Hill as Rip Van Winkle, Miss Joan McGillan as Peterkee, and Edmund Lachmann, Jr., as Dirck Spuytenduyvil was mentioned particularly.

TAKE CARE OF TEETH, MOUTH FOR DAINTINESS

BY ALICIA HART

Toothbrushes should be washed and put in the sun at least once a week. Just think how much punishment they stand in the way of hard work, damp work and no efficient drying out.

In addition to a satisfactory tooth paste, everyone should use a mouth wash in sumer time. The air is bad enough on hot days, in crowded offices and stores, without anyone contributing anything more in the way of bad breath.

Antiseptic mouth washes neutralize many otherwise unpleasant breath odors. A little mouth rinsing takes only a few seconds. Why not make that contribution to office happiness?

Summer time is an excellent time to have your much needed dental work done. So many people are away on vacation that you will be able to get your appointments more easily. It will be nice to face winter with sound teeth and your mouth all fixed up.

Dental floss should be kept in every medicine chest. And used. Especially at night, just before going to bed. After you have given your nice white teeth in very good brushing and a treatment with dentrifice, slip some dental floss between all of your teeth. The dentist will tell you how much work this will cheat him out of Nothing prevents decay quite so much as thorough cleansing.

Meticulous women scrape their tongues mornings and night with little scrapers prepared for this purpose. Any drug store sells them.

If your gums are not so pink as they should be, a hot salt gargle every morning or night is a good tonic for them. The hot salt bath this gives them seems to freshen them up quite as much as fresh water may freshen up flowers.

None of these steps to mouth daintiness is hard to take. All told they consume only a few minutes. And nothing is more important, as I said in the beginning, than a sweet mouth in summer time.

Chicken salad, toasted rolls and olives with a hot or cold beverage are suitable evening refreshments.

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked in cold water before being sent to the laundry. The stains come out quite easily if treated in this way. Hot water "sets" them and makes them doubly difficult to remove.

Light brown sugar gives a good flavor to baked apples or apple puddings.

The edges of linoleum mats or rugs may be kept from curling up or breaking off by gluing or pasting an inch wide strip of carpet or strong cloth close to the edge on the under side of the mat or rug.

SHOWERS HELPING FIGHT FOREST FIRES

Flames in Idaho National Forest Still Raging Unchecked

Spokane, Wash.—(AP)—Light showers were dampening northwest forests today, with high humidity promising rains that would help 3,000 fire fighters.

Only in the Idaho national forest were blazes still raging uncontrolled. Danger fronts farther to the north were being held along closely patrolled fire lines as favorable weather brought the first lull in more than a week.

Reports reaching forest service officials at Grants Pass, Ore., said farmers, armed with rifles, were patrolling their timber holdings in the Deer Creek section of Josephine-co in a determined effort to stop incendiarism.

HEAVY PROPERTY LOSS

Los Angeles—(AP)—Sweeping down San Francisquito canyon, scene of the disastrous 1928 St. Francis dam break, fire today left in its wake charred cabin homes, burned hay fields and black ruin over a stretch of several miles. Approximately 400 men were battling the flames.

The blaze originated near Elizabeth lake. Since the dam break, which caused a loss of more than 400 lives, many summer cabins have been constructed in the canyon. Several ranches also were in the path of the fire.

Marlene Dietrich Named In Libel, Alienation Suits

Los Angeles—(AP)—Marlene Dietrich, one of Hollywood's leading foreign born motion picture stars, was the defendant today in libel and alienation of affections suits brought by the divorced wife of the noted director, Josef Van Sternberg.

The name of Miss Dietrich, wife of the German director, Rudolf Sieber, was brought into court records late yesterday in a copy of the $100,000 libel complaint filed under seal in New York.

In testimony by Von Sternberg it was disclosed that the "same party" named defendant in the libel action also was the defendant in the alienation of affections suit which was said to be for $500,000 and also on file in New York.

Introduction of the copy of the libel complaint was made at a contempt of court proceeding. Mrs. Von Sternberg allened her husband had failed to keep up his alimony payments.

Sternberg testified he thought he was in his legal rights by dropping alimony payments because Mrs. Von Sternberg had "harrassed" him with two suits. He then introduced as an exhibit a copy of the libel complaint.

The complaint declared Miss Dietrich had caused the Neues Wiener Journal, an Austrian newspaper, to print an article containing false statements, including an assertion that Mrs. Von Sternberg had been an undutiful wife.

Miss Dietrich, "discovered" by Von Sternberg and brought to this country less than two years ago, remained silent other than to say she "will consult my attorneys."

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

MARRIED WOMAN SHOULD AID YOUTH TO CHECK HIS INFATUATION FOR HER

Dear Virginia Vane: I am a married woman in the thirties, and my husband and I have not been happy for years. There is a man seven years' my junior who suddenly and violently fell in love with me. I was not in love with him but nevertheless was stirred by his emotion. However from being, the most ardent of admirers, he has turned cold and hard, barely speaks to me, and hurts my feelings in a thousand ways. He will not treat me as a friend, renew a relationship which before his avowal of love, was very pleasant. Can you explain to me what is the matter, and how I can win back his friendship?

M. M.

If the young fellow has been infatuated with you, he's probably made a stern attempt to suppress his feelings, and since he's getting along well now, leave him alone. Unfortunately, if he's attracted to you, he can't go back to the easy ways of friendship. He realizes that it's dangerous to see too much to you.

Young men of his age aren't skilful about stifling their feelings. His natural attitude is one of coldness toward you now because he feels that you were both guilty of some impropriety—and as he wants to put away any thought of an affair with a married woman, he's putting it away as determinedly as possible—sparing neither himself nor you.

Don't try to win him back. You can't reach the old pleasant relationship and you certainly don't want to start a shabby little intrigue. You can't make the man happy. You aren't in love with him. You merely want the thrill of being admired, and you might do serious harm to your admirer if you accepted his attentions and made yourself and him the subject of unpleasant gossip.

No matter how unhappily married you may be, you can find no happiness outside, with cheap flirtations, and meaningless imitations of love. Don't drift into intrigue, just because you're bored with your life as it is. In the present case, give up the idea of friendship with your erstwhile admirer, until he shows by his conduct that he is completely cured of his infatuation, and can meet you on the old basis once more. And be quite sure in your own mind that you really want him back as a friend, and not as an affinity.

Leave the Young Man Alone

G. H: And the same kind of advice goes to you, too my girl, although you're not married, and there is not the same stigma attached to your little flirtation. But your motives aren't very worthy are they?

Here's poor Joe, or whatever his name is, nicely engaged to a girl who suits him and who loves him and believes in him. And here's you, aching to prove to yourself that you're irresistible to every man you meet. Joe isn't used to your type of gal. You're older than his sweetheart, you're sophisticated, you have rather a reputation for being a bit too worldly-wise.

Joe is fascinated, but you know darned well he isn't in love. He simply hovers around because you attract him physically and because it flatters him to think that you're willing to see him so often. There's no question of friendship between you. You merely want him as a proof of your undoubted powers.

You'rt therefore doing him a grave injustice in striving to hold him. Never mind about the other girl—although certainly you ought to feel some compunctions about your treatment of her. Just try to understand how thoroughly you're messing up this boy's life. When you're tired of chasing around with him, he'll find himself minus his real sweetheart, minus your exciting company—and very thoroughly alone in the world. That's isn't fair.

You're older and wiser—therefore you must make a point of breaking up this imitation love-affair. Send him packing back to the girl he loves. Don't be selfish. You can have plenty more beaus. If you start home-wrecking at your age, you'll be storing up trouble for yourself through all the years to come.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BARBARA used her charm to good advantage. When she left the hospital she was engaged to marry Jean. Engaged again. She came hurrying to Sue's room to tell her about it.

"I'm staying here until he's better. He's dreadfully lonesome," Barbara explained. "My bags are at the hotel around the corner from the hospital. Come and have dinner with me tonight, please, Sue."

She smiled as she spoke and Sue somehow sensed that Barbara wanted her to come. That she was lonely. Sue could see why men, who did not know of her fickleness, could be caught in the golden allure of her voice and smile and provocative red, red lips, and purple eyes.

"I'll be glad to come," Sue answered. She would wear the bridesmaid's outfit, and show Barbara that she was a positive factor. She wished, for a fleeting minute, that she, too, could afford to stay at the hotel with its lilting orchestra and cool, wind-swept rooms; its porters and maids and tingling showers.

But Jack would be back soon . . . she wondered what it was that he wanted to tell her the night before. He would write but even at that an airmail special couldn't arrive until the next day. Or the next.

Sue agreed to meet Barbara at the hotel at seven o'clock. She was glad that dinner was to be late. It made the evening less long.

Left alone she started to get dressed.

She noticed that the third finger of her left hand was bare, and went over to the dressing table to get her engagement ring, confident that she had merely removed it while she bathed. She couldn't find it. It wasn't in the blue suede jewelry box, or mixed up in the crystal bottles and queer boxes, some of which were hers, most of which had been left by Sarah.

Feverishly Sue hurried back to the bathroom She got down on her hands and knees and examined the floor. She looked in the drains. The ring wasn't there. She caught her lips between her teeth. It looked as though some malevolent influence was doing its best to take away her contentment.

Then she remembered that she had slipped the ring in the pocket of her uniform that afternoon, when she had washed her hands. The uniform was hanging in the office. A feeling of relief, so overpowering that it was weakening, followed. The ring would be safe until morning, she knew, but she had to have it. She had to let Barbara see that it was there. Even more than that, she needed it for her own personal satisfaction. Fortunately she had a key that Dr. Barnes had given her. Dressing quickly, she hurried to the office

The ring was in the pocket and Sue slipped it on her finger with a firm resolve that she would never again remove it at the office.

She was just ready to leave when she heard the outer door, which had been left unlocked, as Dr. Barnes was coming back for an evening appointment, open.

"Is the doctor in?" a man asked. Sue explained that he would be back at seven. There was something oddly familiar about the man. She had seen him somewhere before. Suddenly she remembered.

NEXT: The man's identity.

Every Child Ought To Be A Swimmer

BY ANGELO PATRI

If I could have but one exercise, one sport to offer the children I would choose swimming. Every child who attends school or camp, from the oldest to the youngest, boys and girls, can learn to swim. There is no greater delight than that which a good swim sets seeping through every muscle and every hidden corner of your body.

There is the beautiful setting. Water is always lovely. Even when it is closed in a tiled pool it is beautiful, but when it moves on the face of the earth there is nothing lovelier in the garden of this world. The pool at the foot of the old elm tree, golden brown against the gravel bed, the sky patterned by the great lacy boughs, the borders of moss and wildflower, the lilt of the bird nearby—what more gracious invitation to wash and be clean could be offered the dust stained weary body?

The brook slipping through the meadow widens into a pool fringed with willows. It always seemed to me that that was an invitation direct from the sky to all small boys. It says as distinctly as the voice in the willows can say it, "Hang you clothes on this willow limb and dive into the water."

The larger lakes and the ocean say "swim." The first shock of the cool water against the body sends a thrill up and down one's spine and an exhilarating response sets the blood tingling. There comes a feeling of joyous mastery as the arms cleave the water and the body rides through the waves. A feeling of deep sweet satisfaction fills one's mind. I have always thought it was born of the feeling that cleanliness was achieved at last. It is this sense of power and this feeling of cleanliness that makes swimming such a satisfying sport.

Its action is very graceful. There is no prettier picture than the one of a young boy or girl diving into the water and swimming back to shore. Every movement is graceful, every pose a delight. Even the most awkward child is at ease in the water and his awkwardness is washed away in graceful ripples as he makes for shore.

All children can learn to swim. They learn to swim when they learn to walk but they must be taught. If a child fears the water he is to be allowed to get acquainted with it in his own way. Let him sit in his bathing suit and watch the water as long as he wishes to do so. If he does no more than this for months let him alone. The time is coming when he will forget all his fear and strike out into the water. You do not swim out to the deep place and leave him to swim back. You let him feel the ground under him as long as he wishes. His training must be as gradual as he indicates. He will make up time when he gains confidence.

Encourage the girls to learn to swim. It is as much fun for a girl as a boy. She will need to know how to handle herself in the water as much as any boy will need the knowledge and the ability. A girl drowns as easily as a boy. A girl can save another child as skilfully as a boy could do it. A girl needs healthy exercise as much as a boy does. A girl needs fun just as much as a boy does. All children ought to learn to swim, the earlier the better.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Roofer Follows Boss On Honeymoon, Gets Lost

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa — This village became "home" to a stranger in a totally unexpected manner this week. Fred Behm, 52, gaunt, gray haired, and tall, who claimed Saginaw, Mich. as his home town, drove into Manawa with a roofing truck. He was broke, lost, minus his boss and partner, and completely discouraged.

Behm and his employer, Bert Pinkham, also of Saginaw, make annual trips during the summer months, traveling from town to town and complete any and all roofing jobs that they can find. Pinkham, recently married, was apparently making this trip something of a honeymoon affair. He drove a coupe in company with his wife, while Behm followed as best he could in the truck that housed the roofing equipment.

The trio left New London one day this week bound for Waupaca, Pinkham leading the way, as usual, and Behm trailing. The coupe pulled out so far ahead that Behm was unable to follow it, and when he became confused at the signs at a highway intersection, he headed his machine towards Manawa instead of Waupaca. Arriving here his gas tank was empty, so was his stomach, and he had only a few pennies in his pocket.

He waited around here all that afternoon and evening, expecting the arrival of his boss. Then he made known his plight to Charles Deckert, local constable, who sent word to Waupaca officials. Nothing has been heard from Pinkham, and Behm has sort of adopted Manawa—or Manawa has sort of adopted Behm. Good natured and kind hearted local citizens saw that he was given something to eat, a place to sleep, gasoline for his truck, and an occasional roofing job which he is doing at reduced rates. A notice of his predicament published in the local paper brought additional work, and if Boss Pinkham doesn't inform Hireling Behm pretty soon as to his whereabouts, Saginaw, Mich. may be minus a resident gained by Manawa.

START WORK ON JOBS DESIGNED FOR IDLE MEN

Unemployed to Erect Railroad Overheads in Calumet-co

Special to Post-Crescent

Chilton — Work on the railroad overheads in this county, designed to relieve the unemployment situation was started this week. An engineer sent out by the unemployment commission at Madison began on Wednesday to stake out the West Hayton overhead. The William Sweeney Construction Co. of Green Bay has the contract for the overhead. Work will be under way in a few days. Two crews will be employed on six hour shifts. One hundred and fifty men have registered for work on these overhead jobs, but it is not believed that the contractors will be able to use more than one third of that number.

ANNUAL WATER CLASSIC OPENS ON WOLF RIVER

Expect Thousands to See 1931 Carnival in Village of Fremont

Fremont—With hundreds of visitors already in this village, the fourth annual water carnival got underway here at 8 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Motorboat races and a baseball game between New London and Fremont on the Hildebrandt diamond were conducted. A pavement dance has been scheduled for 8 o'clock this evening on Water-st.

An amusement company has opened its tents, side shows, ferris wheel, merry-go-round, gyro wheel and other equipment, in the tourist park.

Water events will start at 10 o'clock Sunday with stunt flying by Harvey Blue, Jr., of Dale, Wisconsin, in his specially built biplane water glider, the first event of its kind ever attempted.

Surfboard riding behind racing boats going 30-miles an hour and down and circling across the river will follow swimming races for children under 16 years also will be staged. Amateur log rolling at 11:30 will conclude the morning's program.

The Sunday afternoon events will open with five classes of outboard motorboat races. Entrants from Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Appleton and other cities will compete for prizes totalling nearly $200. This promises to be one of the most exciting parts of the afternoon entertainment.

Men and women's swimming races will follow the boat races, after skiffs and row boats will race. Tub races also are scheduled.

At 4:45 in the afternoon Harry Weymouth and Arnold Williams, old-time rivermen of Oshkosh, will engage in a thrilling log rolling contest. A man will be on each end of a large log, equipped with regular log rolling corked shoes and a pick pole. The winner will be decided when the twirling log has been snubbed enough times to throw one man into the water twice.

Sheriff Arthur Steenbock of Waupaca and Albert Averill, local birler, will engage in a log twirling duel after the Oshkosh men finish.

Boat relay and water polo races will conclude the races for the afternoon.

With twenty-four floats entered the Venetian Night of Fremont's water carnival, Sunday evening promises to be the most colorful exhibition of beauty staged here. This year the individual floats will be carried by one, two, four and as many as six boats for the unusually large representations.

While Harvey Blue, Jr., is thrilling the crowds on the river banks with spectacular stunting in his water glider, early Sunday evening, the floats will be assembled and fastened together into a long chain with hooks and ropes at the mouth of Partridge lake, a half mile up river from the village.

Frank Hilderbrandt will tow the boats with his high-powered launch and when the magnificent display comes within sight range of the crowds, flares will be lighted.

The floats will deject historical scenes, foreign costumes and modern mechanical machines.

KAWS TRAVEL TO RAPIDS TO PLAY 2 GAMES

Merchants Donate Toward Fund to Engage Another Pitcher

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna baseball team plays two games at Wisconsin Rapids Sunday. Lamers, Kaukauna manager has, worked the team hard all week and means to eke out two wins in order to give his mates a comfortable lead in the league race.

Financial difficulties are the reason given by officials for moving Sunday's game to the Rapids. A record crowd is expected to see the teams battle at the Rapids park. The Rapids is a great baseball town anyway and with the title at stake the whole population will most likely be on hand. A large delegation of Kaukauna fans will go to the northern city.

Businessmen have donated to a fund to hire an extra hurler for one of the games and the most likely candidate for the position is "Bugs" Herche of Manitowoc, who did some pitching for the Kaukauna Collegians baseball nine. Two other hurlers, one a southpaw also are lined up for the fray. The other game can easily be taken care of by Michelson, who has won a name for himself this season.

Kaukauna's starting lineup will be Michelson pitching to Wenzel, Collins on first, Lamers second, Al Prange short, Johnny Phillips third, Les Smith in left, Joey Vils in center and "Mush" Esler or Ray Smith in right field.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Kaukauna—Royal Neighbors will hold a picnic at LaFollette park Wednesday August 12. A covered dish supper will be served at 5:30 and all members are to take a covered dish. Only one more meeting of the club will be held during the month of August, that being a business meeting on August 25.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church will meet at the home of Mrs. J. B. Delbridge on Desnoyer-st at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. W. Cooper will be devotional leader. Reports of committees will be heard and election of officers will take place.

Knights of Columbus will meet in their clubrooms on Wisconsin-ave Monday evening. Newly elected officers will be installed by District Deputy G. T. Prim of Appleton. A report on the audit of the six months ended June 30 will be heard. John Vande Loo will be installed as grand knight, succeeding William T. Sullivan.

K. C. BASEBALLERS WHIP BIRDS, 6 TO 5

Kaukauna — Whip-poor-wills lost a close game to the Knights of Columbus at the Park school diamond Friday evening by a 6 to 5 count. The North Side Merchants won on a forfeit 9 to 0 from the Pulpmakers when not enough of the Pulpmakers appeared in time to start the game. Mereness now leads the league by three games as the Whip-poor-wills lost two games this week.

Saturday evening Van's Fords will meet the league leading Mereness Transfers at Park school in a non-league fracas. The Fords are made up of players from the Merchants and from the Reggie Brewers.

Kaukauna—A coffer dam is being built on the south side of the river near the new government dam. All the plank in the spillway of the old dam has been removed and both government dredges, the Winneconne and the DePere are at work. The tugs Neenah, Kingfish, and Menasha are also being used to tow barges with materials for the new dam. A spillway will be erected on the site of the old dam when the debris has been removed. The new dam will be slightly longer than the old.

JUNIORS LOSE CLOSE GAME AT NEW LONDON

Kaukauna—Kaukauna's American Legion junior baseball nine lost to New London legion juniors Friday afternoon at New London 5 to 4. Lack Of Pasturage And Heat Cut Down Herds' Production

Special to Post-Crescent

Chilton—Of 385 cows tested during July in the Calumet County Dairy Herd Improvement association, 35 produced more than 40 pounds of butterfat.

The average of milk per cow is 748 lbs. with a 3.78 per cent test. The average butterfat for the association is 28.3 lbs.

Milk production for the month dropped lower than the expected seasonal decline. This was mainly due to the excessive heat together with general lack of good pasture. It is extremely difficult to provide feed in a time like this. Farmers having silage left over from winter are feeding it to good advantage.

Every indication points to an advance in milk prices in the near future. This will enable the buying of more bran which is low in price.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "LEO"

If August 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. from 2:30 p. m. to 3:40 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 4:40 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Those who have been looking forward to a day of rest on this August 9th, will meet with disappointment. New worries will crop up, or forgotten problems will come to life again. Astrological influences are in opposition to mental relaxation.

Children born on this August 9th will be endowed with cool, clear intellects. They will be natural talkers, but will not be overly confiding. If boys, they will make successful business men. If girls, they are suited for independent careers, outside of the home.

The Sign of Leo governs the heart, and therefore, it will be from this center that the character of those born on August 9th must be judged. You are genuinely kind, warm-hearted and loving. You can be both impulsive and diffusive, but it is usually the impulse of a generous nature. You love to rule, but you are not tyrannical, and always obey the impulses of the heart where sympathy is concerned. You are a practical dreamer, for you are always trying to make them actualities and are able to combine the ideal with the real.

You posses an abundance of vitality, and are highly magnetic— a true strength giver to others. SUGGEST GUARD FOR CANAL SWIMMING HOLE

Kaukauna—According to Mayor B. W. Fargo a guard will be placed at the fourth lock or else swimming at the place will be prohibited. Several complaints have been received about leaving soap on the concrete near the edges endangering footing of men working on the tugs and other craft plying the river. The place is popular with swimmers and as many as 200 a day have been at the water there.

PRISONERS TO MAKE 1932 AUTO LICENSES

New $80,000 State Prison Plant to Begin Work on Them Next Week

Madison—(AP)— The task of making nearly 1,000,000 automobile license plates for Wisconsin automobile owners in 1932 will begin in a week in the new $80,000 plant at the state prison at Waupun, Allan W. Bayley, secretary of the board of control, announced today.

Next year licenses will be numbered consecutively and no class designation will be shown. The plate colors will be the opposite of the 1931 plates, and will have blue numbers on a yellow background. The plates will be slightly larger.

Mr. Bayley explains considerable economies are achieved by numbering the licenses consecutively and doing away with the class designations. Under the weight class system, many plates were made and not used because of an insufficiency of automobiles in certain classes.

Distribution of the new plates will begin about Dec. 1, he said.

The new license plant has been built with prison labor. The manufacturing division is on the first floor, while the second and third floors are dormitories for prisoners.

BANK EARNINGS ARE REGULATED BY MONEY MART

All Returns Belong to Depositors Except Funds Used as Surplus

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press

The amount of money earned on deposits in a savings bank varies with the individual bank and with the state of the money market. Sometimes the return is called interest and sometimes it is called a dividend. In any event in a mutual savings bank all the earnings belong to the depositors although a part is set aside regularly as a surplus or safety fund, the rest being credited to the individual accounts.

It used to be the invariable rule that interest was computed from the first of each quarter or some other stated time and that sums withdrawn between interest dates sacrificed a certain amount of earnings. There are now, however, many banks which pay interest from the day of the deposit up to the day of the withdrawal. Such an arrangement overcomes one advantage a bond has over a savings bank deposit, for when one buys a bond he pays accrued interest up to the day of the purchase and when he sells it he receives interest up to the day of the sale.

As this is written savings banks are paying anywhere from 3½ to 4½ per cent on deposits, the higher rate being a better return than can be had an anything else of comparable quality. The great obstacle the average man has to overcome when he decides to set aside his surplus regularly in the savings bank is the lack of compulsion such as is inherent in the ownership of building and loan shares or in the taking out of a life insurance policy payment of premiums on which must be made at the fixed time or the policy lapses.

It is easy to make a savings plan but it is hard to carry it out. There is no remedy for this except exercise of will power. The recommended way is to take a certain percentage of one's salary or wages and deposit it weekly or monthly. Christmas and vacation savings clubs are devices useful to help those who have difficulty in keeping up to schedule.

Kaukauna—About 25 Kaukauna railroad employes will attend the meeting of the Railroad Employees Association Washington club No. 1 in the Fern room of the Columbus club at Green Bay at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. Congressman George J. Schneider will speak at the meeting.

Another Baby Dislikes Water

If the dozen baby elephants that travel with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus have a wish it probably is that they, like Soudana, one of the giraffe herd, had been born with long necks, for in that event they would not have theirs washed every day by the keepers as is now the case.

In fact, George Denman, boss of the big and little pachyderms, will tell you that the "punks" often turn a jealous eye across the menagerie tent where these long necked jungle curiosities stand, as though envious of their cleanly appearance.

Unlike the baby elephants, who must have their faces sponged before they go into the "big top" to perform, Soudana Giraffe never meets this ordeal. She simply can't be reached. Soudana, 21 feet high, and easily the tallest member of North America's entire animal kingdom, is worth much study. The giraffe corral has been specially placed in this season's menagerie arrangement and the keeper of the Big Show's herd, Andrew Zingaro, who is recognized as the greatest living authority on the habits of this exceptional animal, will gladly answer all questions that circus patrons may ask. He will, for instance, tell you that the giraffe never perspires, never utters a sound of any kind, that its hind legs are exactly as long as its front legs, despite an optical illusion that suggests the contrary, and many other interesting things.

Vast congresses of every known wild animal are specially featured by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus this season.

Performances are to be given here Thursday, August 20.

PATHOLOGIST ASKED TO EXAMINE BONES

Waukesha—(AP)— Dr. E. I. Miloslavich, Milwaukee, pathologist, has been asked to examine charred bones taken from the ruins of the John Kinney farm barn near here, to determine whether they are those of a human. Coroner John Schaeffel, who heard reports that a man was seen to enter the barn shortly before it burned Tuesday has expressed the belief that the bones are those of an animal. Dr. Miloslavich could not say today how soon his report would be made.

The only 1931 months to show decreases over 1930 were May with a reduction of 12, and June with six.

BUILD STREET TO TURN OUT PICTURE

Huge Exterior Setting Required for Dressler Feature

A complete city hall and an entire town street, one of the largest single exterior settings constructed since the coming of the talkies, were erected to usher Marie Dressler into film stardom.

This is the big city hall set where the torchlight processions, rallies and other demonstrations are staged by Marie in "Politics," her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will come Monday to the Fox Theatre. It is her first appearance since recently promoted to full stardom.

The construction of the huge set was interesting. As an exterior building it had to be very solid — so every wall was treated acoustically, and the sidewalks were laid over foundations of porous material to absorb the bulk of the noise of footsteps.

Marie Runs for Mayor

The new picture is a hilarious story of Marie's running for the mayor's job, with Polly Moran as her campaign manager. They organize the women's vote, expose the crooked mayor and his gangster satellites, call out all the women on strike against their husbands when the men try to organize, and generally raise the dickens. There are laughs galore. There are dramatic scenes, too, where Miss Dressler has some remarkable character acting.

Charles F. Riesner directed the new picture, in which a notable cast appears, including Rosco Ates, Karen Morley, William Bakewell, John Miljan, Joan Marsh, Tom McGuire, Kane Richmond and Mary Alden. The story is an original by Zelda Sears and Malcolm Stuart Boylan. It was adapted by Wells Root with dialogue by Robert E. Hopkins.

BOOK ANOTHER GERMAN TALKING PICTURE HERE

Due to the great interest shown by the people of Appleton for German pictures, Frank Dau manager of Warner's Appleton Theatre has booked another German musical comedy for three days starting next Wednesday. "Sien Liebeslied" (His Love Song) is an all German musical comedy made by the producer of the sensationaly successful "Zwie Hertzen in ¾ Takt" (Two Hearts in Waltz Time). "Sien Liebeslied" contains an all star German cast headed by the Maurice Chevalier of Germany Willie Forst. The locale of this beautiful musical comedy is laid in beautiful Munich.

Rubber mile posts that are pushed out of the way when struck by an automobile and then rebound into position have been installed along some German highways.

Stars In Talking Picture Here

Barbara Stanwyck star of "Miracle Woman" which comes to Warner's Appleton Theatre for three days starting at the mid-night preview tonight.

Barbara Stanwyck comes to Warner's Appleton Theatre for three days starting at the mid-night preview tonight in "The Miracle Woman," Columbia's newest special picture that is said to provide this incomparable actress with her greatest dramatic role. Miss Stanwyck has been nothing less than a sensation. She burst into the cinema sky like a bombshell. No one hardly suspected her presence—and then, all of a sudden, there she was one day making you cry and like it in "Ladies of Leisure." Since then the movie world has been talking about her—and talking in accents loud and loving.

In "The Miracle Woman," an adaptation of a stage play by John Meehan and Robert Riskin, Miss Stanwyck plays the role of a young girl of tremendously high ideals. When she falls in with some tricksters she becomes thoroughly disillusioned. At heart she loses faith in everything until she falls in love with a blind boy. Through this great love and his blind faith in her she is regenerated.

David Manners, especially remembered for his exquisite portrayal of the lad Raleigh in "Journey's End," plays the blind musician in "The Miracle Woman." Sam Hardy has the very important role of Hornsby, who promotes the girl's faith in sensational style. Beryl Mercer, Russell Hopton, Charles Middleton, Eddie Boland, Thelma Hill and Aileen Carlyle complete the cast.

Frank Capra, who combined his talents with Miss Stanwyck's in the making of "Ladies of Leisure" and whose recent spectacular effort was "Dirgible," directed "The Miracle Woman," which is said to be sensational in its story and spectacular in its treatment.

NEW HEAD NAMED FOR NORMAL AT SUPERIOR

Superior—(AP)—J. H. Hill, history teacher at River Falls State Teachers college, has been appointed president of the state teachers college here, succeeding A. E. S. Gillette, who resigned a few weeks ago, R. E. Curran, Superior member of the board of regents of state teachers colleges, announced Thursday night.

Mr. Hall, who came to Wisconsin from Texas, taught for a year at the School of Mines, Platteville, Wis., and for four years at River Falls.

GANGSTERS CROSS GATS WITH RIDERS OF RANGE

Gangsters from the big city have a chance to match their shooting prowess with hard-hitting cowboys of the Idaho range in "Gun Smoke," the Richard Arlen outdoor talkie at the Elite theatre today and Sunday. Arlen, as a free-spirited mustang hunter, leads his fellows in the battle against the invaders from gangland.

The cast includes Mary Brian as the heroine, William Boyd as the gang leader, and Louise Fazenda and Eugene Pallette furnish the comedy roles.

GARY COOPER PLAYS ROLE OF SOLDIER

"Morocco," a Love-story Filmed on an Epic Scale, Coming to Elite

Mid a blare of martial music and a waving of flags, Gary Cooper will swing onto the screen at the Elite theatre Thursday and Friday in the greatest soldier role he has ever played, in "Morocco," Paramount's gigantic and spectacular drama of the French Foreign Legion.

Not even in "Beau Sabreur" did Cooper attain to the colorful background which features "Morocco," and the brilliant action which makes every moment of this Josef von Sternberg picture a breath-taking experience. In "Morocco," the talking screen has found its voice of love for, with Cooper, is seen that amazingly beautiful actress whom Paramount brought from Germany to feature in this production, Marlene Dietrich.

"Morocco" is a love story, emotion-swept, filmed on an epic scale, under the direction of the man who made "Underworld," whose rare combination of artistic and practical skill has proved his right, time and time again, to be listed with the greatest directors of the all time. It is the story of a man and a woman, a man ruthless with all women, considering them but passing pleasures to be tasted and tossed aside; a woman embittered of life, scorning all men.

Gary Cooper, happy-go-lucky soldier of fortune, a private in the French Foreign Legion, is a young man without an illusion, even when he makes a play for the girl, beautiful Marlene Dietrich, a cafe singer, whose ravishing charm also interests a man-of-the-world, Adolphe Menjou.

VIVIAN DUNCAN'S CHILD IS ADMITTED INTO U. S.

New York—(AP)—Vivian Duncan's five months old daughter, Evelyn, over whose nationality there was considerable question recently, because she was born in Germany, the child of a Swedish father and an American mother, was peacefully admitted to this country by immigration authorities Friday when Miss Duncan and her daughter arrived on the liner Paris.

FAMOUS WISCONSIN LABOR LEADER IS 82

Milwaukee—(AP)—Frank J. Weber, "grand old man" of organized labor in Wisconsin and pal of Jack London and Samuel Gompers in the old days, Friday celebrated his 82nd birthday at his home here.

Weber, still active in labor circles, retains the position of business manager for the Milwaukee Federated Trades council, a group he helped organize in 1887.

Sixth Century Will Rogers

Will Rogers, star of the Fox picture, "A Connecticut Yankee" shows what the man about town wears when he takes a stroll—in the sixth century. The picture is showing at the Elite Theatre three days starting Monday.

WILL ROGERS FROLICS IN KING ARTHUR COURT

Will Rogers turns back the universe, way back to the sixth century and introduces the knights of King Arthur's Court to baby Austin automobiles, machine guns and the other knick knacks of our modern civilization.

The world's funniest man in the title role of Mark Twain's satirical masterpiece, "A Connecticutt Yankee," Fox picture coming to the Elite Theatre, Monday Tuesday and Wednesday, brings with him the greatest number of real hearty laughs that have ever been crowded into one single picture. From the moment he trumps the best trick of the king's magician by making a cigar lighter light the first time, until he rescues the beautiful lady from the wicked queen it is one continuous roar.

Will Rogers is surrounded by the most capable cast that ever played with the comedian. It includes Myrna Loy, William Farnum, Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson and others, under the direction of David Butler.

Those who walk on Delaware's highways at night must carry a lighted lantern or a white handkerchief.

MILWAUKEE-CO SEEKS LOAN OF TWO MILLION

Milwaukee—(AP)—Delinquencies in property taxes and unprecedented expenditures in the outdoor relief department have forced the county of Milwaukee to negotiate, for the first time in its corporate history, for a loan, Supervisor Albert W. Foster, chairman of the county board's finance committee, said Thursday night that the first Wisconsin National bank has been asked for $2,000,000.

Patrick McManus, county treasurer, estimated that his department will have to hold property tax certificates for $1,200,000, for 1930 taxes. Food, fuel and other supplies for the outdoor relief department for the six months this year cost $1,153,618, more than $600,000 over the budgeted amount. Mr. Foster said he believes the county will have to expend $2,400,000 for charity this year.

Chapter 17
AFTER THE BALL

MOLLY was up waiting for them, wanting to hear all about the ball. Molly had dressed Juanita as usual, but the marquesa had not required too much assistance. "I bet she's scratched for herself before now," thought Molly. "And Divitt can't expect me to get her into that circus rag. He says she's a lady. Nobody's a lady in a dress that red."

Divitt had failed to mislead his wife with regard to the marquesa's office. "Didn't he get her because he thought I hadn't pumped Juanita?" Molly asked herself.

Dimly she felt she ought to warn Juanita against the marquesa. warn her not to confide in her merely because they spoke the same language. But for Divitt's sake Molly could not do this.

Molly had missed Juanita tonight. Divitt had put a girl in her place, one Fifi, with a pretty little face as hard as an alley cat's. Fifi took the tray about with a rakish step. "She jazzes it," said Molly bitterly.

Divitt had told Molly about Ledbetter's behavior to Juanita. Gabreau had also been told and instructed not to admit Ledbetter hereafter. Gabreau had kept a hopeful watch at the gate, but Ledbetter had not appeared. "Poor Juanita!" thought Molly. "If he had snatched off her veil in the parlors she could never have gone to the Comus ball."

Molly had felt no apprehension regarding the marquesa's presence at the ball. The marquesa might appraise the jewels worn by the ladies, but the theater held no family gold or silver for her to place. "Old red buzzard," thought Molly.

The marquesa was aware of Molly's antagonism. "Funny about these wives," she told herself. "They may not know what it is, but if you've been in their husband's past, they've got their fur up."

The suite had a parlor, a bath, and one large high-ceiled bedroom with two great four-poster beds, canopied and having curtains that could be drawn for privacy. The marquesa sat on her bed, undressing.

She had danced a hole in her stocking. No matter. Spike was paying for it. . . . She had done a lot for Spike tonight. They were invited to the Belaise place in Biloxi. Adrian Fouche and his mother were coming to call. (Sancta Maria, that woman's pearls!) And Bobby — Bobby What's-his-name— He was coming around too, and wanted to give Juanita a party after Easter. Cranshaw! That was the name. She had scratched it on her fan, had asked about the Cranshaws afterward—casually, as was her way. Western people — new money, and loads of it. Oil.

The marquesa went over to her trunk and, taking out a bottle of liniment, began to rub her feet.

Molly wrinkled her nose at the smell of the liniment. Every detail of the ball interested Molly, the names of the men with whom Juanita had danced, the costumes they wore, the favors, the queen, the ladies' gowns, the supper. . . .

"That was good about your not knowing who Adrian Fouche was. You couldn't have danced with him if you had. Of course he didn't know you. . . . How could he? And Eric Ledbetter wasn't there. But you may run into him, honey — and if you do don't you care. He didn't see you, that night."

"Perhaps not. But I spoke to him in English."

"You did?" whispered Molly aghast. "What did you say?"

"I don't know. I just remember hearing my voice — and striking him."

Molly was silent a moment, then she patted Juanita's hand. "It's all right. He was drunk. He won't remember. Anyhow, if you meet him—face him Don't run."

The marquesa found the cigar she had selected at supper, and began to smoke.

"Hell's bells!" yelled Molly. "Can't you find some asafetida?"

The marquesa got into bed and drew the curtains.

"Get into bed," Molly said to Juanita, and opened the window, letting in the drowsy dawn-rattle of Royal street. Juanita smiled up at her sleepily from a tumble of dark hair.

"Poor kid!" thought Molly, putting out the light, closing the door softly. "She's not much younger than me, but she seems like a kid — my kid. . . . Lord, I'm gettin' soft."

The door of Divitt's office was locked and she went home by way of the Tijon patio and through the little gate.

Gabreau in his short bed heard Molly as she came through the gate. There were few sounds these nights that Gabreau did not hear. Many the draught of sedative had Conchita given Gabreau.

"You got slip or you be seeck. How dis place gon' ex-eest—eef Gabreau seeck?"

"But he kees her, Maman! He jerk 'way de veil and he kees her mouth. It mo' worse dan when she kees him light—thoo de veil."

Conchita knew how keenly Gabreau had watched at the gate, hoping that Ledbetter would come. Gabreau would forbid his entrance as he had been instructed, and Gabreau would do more. He would follow Ledbetter into the dark street, and on some pretext—perhaps with the hint of a message from Juanita — would lure him into an alley and have it out with him.

But even Conchita believed that delay would soften Gabreau's desire for vengeance. Even Conchita did not guess that Juanita's entrance into the world under the wing of the marquesa—for what purpose he surmised all too accurately — conjured up such visions of her meetings with Ledbetter as tossed him like driftwood.

"He will see her close. He will mebbe not know her. He mebbe will. Anyhows, he will love her. He will spik soft. He will give her mooch flowers and presents. She will listen. . . . Oh Madre de Dios! . . . Oh Purgatorio! . . ."

Tonight Conchita, to sooth him, had lighted the candles before the picture on the improvised altar. Her aging eyes had not seen in the chromo the likeness that had drawn Gabreau to buy it. She divined that love had been in a measure to thank her for the labor he had spent in building the little stand; had felt that Juanita was the inspiration — but Gabreau was becoming more pious. Gabreau, indeed, was becoming kinder. At first he had said often, "I am the blood of Napoleon." With this he had justified whatever thing he might do. He did not say this any more—not since he had set the picture on the stand behind the candles. . . . He had relinquished some thought that went with that. Ay, thought Conchita, if only he would relinquish the tossing agony that remained.

Tonight she had lighted the candles, and had fallen asleep. Gabreau had lain still till he heard Molly come through the gate. Then he went to a window, watching Molly cross the court and close her door. Juanita was home now, he knew—asleep in the great bed, in the room to which he had taken the flowers. The fat woman with the big ear rings was sleeping beside her. . . .

Gabreau went back to bed. When Conchita woke at seven to go to the kitchen, she found him sprawled asleep.

Gabreau awoke in a darkened room. It was his office to wait table for Molly and Divitt and to be on call for any errand. But it was no thought of these duties that sent him from his tumbled bed and into his clothes. This was the day for which he had waited a week. Tonight he would not be in the parlors. Umberto would need him. Umberto had given him instructions as to where and how they should meet. Once before Umberto had given such instructions and Gabreau had misunderstood and waited in the wrong place. He would mis-understand again.

Having dressed, Gabreau opened the secret drawer where he and Conchita kept their savings. He took out some silver pieces, thrust them into his pocket, went downstairs. He had an errand of his own.

(Copyright, Dodd, Mead & Co)

Broken locks . . . a sharp blade . . . They figure in Gabreau's errand tomorrow. But dark eyes restrain him.

Steamships on the Pacific coast report that by blowing loud blasts from their whistles they are able to smash icebergs within range of the sound.

ART BEHR AND POCAN CLASH FOR LAST TIME

Kimberly-Appleton Game Beginning of Season's Final Round

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Green Bay at Shawano.
Kaukauna at Wisconsin Rapids.
Kimberly at Appleton.

BY GORDON R. McINTYRE

WITH only five weeks of play left in the season the August Brandt Fords tomorrow again will attempt to shake the jinx that has hung to them for the last couple weeks and get into at least a tie for first or second place in Valley League baseball standings.

Last Sunday the Fords completed the third round of play, a round that netted them one victory and four defeats and dumped the team from the top of the heap into third place. They were defeated by Wisconsin Rapids, Kaukauna, Green Bay and Shawano in the order named.

Tomorrow's opponents will be Clarence Pocan and his Kimberly ball club which has not faired much better than the Fords. The meeting is the last of the season and gives the Fords a chance to make it four straight over the team. The game also gives Lefty Art Behr a chance to continue the string of goose eggs he has handed the Papermakers this season, one for every inning he has pitched against the team.

May Have To Do It Alone

However, if Behr continues his whitewashing of Kimberly he'll probably have to do it alone and pray the Fords get at least one run for him. In recent games Lefty has done all the pitching and his mates just went to the rubber and went back to the bench. Batting averages are the best proof of that and the standings as shown yesterday make the Fords look like class Z with the war club.

Behr will be opposed by another of the hard luck pitchers in the league, a hurler who tosses his head off and fails to get the verdict because his mates can't hit the ball with a four foot board—Clarence Pocan. "Poke" has lost almost as many games as Behr in just the same manner. So all we can promise the folks is they'll see two good pitchers.

No Changes Planned

No changes are contemplated in the Ford lineup Sunday, at least we haven't heard of any. Leo Murphy will do the master minding behind the plate and with his experience can be depended upon to help Behr along. Baldy Eggert who next week becomes a benedict is slated for duty at first base, Donegan will work at second and Weisgerber at short with Joe Shields at third. In the outfield the lineup will be Bowers, Smith and Van Wyck.

Kimberly's representatives will be pretty much the same as in recent games. Red Smith will catch if Ashman isn't ready for duty just yet, Skell or Dupont will show at first base, Hackbarth at second, Joe Muench at short and Cully Schultz at third. The garden will reveal Thein in left, Kirkhoff in center and Arnie Hillman in right.

Given a break in the weather the teams will draw a record crowd. Despite the fact they are down the list in the standings they draw very well because of the intense natural rivalry.

A twin bill, which may go a long way towards deciding possession of the pennant in the Valley league, will be staged Sunday afternoon at Wisconsin Rapids where Huber and Co. is slated to cross bats with Kaukauna in a "bargain day" attraction.

Marty Lamers' tribe is leading the race by a half game but, if the Rapids should happen to slip over a double win, Kaukauna is apt to tumble to third position. Eastling and Biot will do the hurling for Wisconsin Rapids. Michaelson is slated to work one of the games for the Kaws and Charlie Barrer, former Brewer slabster, will probably be the Electric City nomination in the other contest.

Shawano will be at home to Green Bay. After losing a dozen straight, the Indians upset Appleton last Sunday and Manager Hoffman feels confident that his revamped ball club will put the skids under Green Bay. It will probably be Schneider and Schultz for the tail enders while Bo Molenda, who has recovered from an arm ailment is to twirl for Green Bay with Dave Krembs receiving.

Sunday evening, the Valley league magnates will assemble at the Murdock hotel, Shawano, for the August meeting. The Shawano Baseball association has made arrangements to make the visiting moguls feel right at home. This is the first time that the Valley leaguers have ever gathered around the conference board in Shawano.

DEMPSEY, LEONARD BANNED IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—Jack Dempsey and Benny Leonard may attempt comebacks if they choose, but not in Illinois. This is the stand of Major General John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic association, and his colleagues.

General Clinnin said the commission would not approve for either the former heavyweight champion, or the retired lightweight titleholder and cited the comeback attempt to Charlie White, a contemporary of Leonard. White was stopped by one of the Perlick twins of Kalamazoo, Mich., in two rounds.

"There will be no more sanctions issued for such bouts in Illinois" General Clinnin said. "I am sending a communication on this subject to all commissions affiliated with the N. B. A., and I think Illinois' attitude will be supported by the other members of the association."

It had been reported that Leonard would make his comeback start in Chicago this fall.

First Place At Stake Tomorrow When Leaders In Little Fox Clash

SUNDAY GAMES
Little Chute at Neenah.
Menasha at Green Bay.
DePere at Appleton.
DePere at Green Bay (morning).

RENEWAL of the great battle for first place in the Little Fox River Valley League which Neenah and Little Chute have been staging since the opening day's games on May. 3, will occupy the center of the stage Sunday in the junior valley loop, when the two rivals clash at Neenah, in their third meeting of the year. The teams have split two games, the Hollanders winning at Little Chute by a single tally and the Merchants evening the score at Neenah by two runs.

Neenah Has Edge

The teams have never been more than a game apart all season with the Chuters having the edge until a few weeks ago. Harry Fahrenkrug, boss righthander of the loop, whose work has earned him a tryout with Milwaukee's Brewers, will oppose the only team that has beaten him this year.

Opposing Harry will be the veteran George Vanderloop, whose sterling work in the only two games he has hurled for Little Chute this year is the subject of much comment at Chutetown. Two weeks ago he lost a hurler's duel to Fahrenkrug, allowing six hits to Harry's five. Last week he let Menasha down with one hit, the season's best mound mark.

Menasha's rejuvenated ballers will seek revenge at Green Bay for defeat two week's ago. At that time Maciejefski, new Eagle hurler, lost a game in the ninth grame, 9-4, after having allowed three hits and fanned 15 batters for a 4-4 score before the fatal inning. Previously the Bays and Eagles split two games. Hodek or Burnette will hurl for the Bays.

DePere at Appleton

DePere, holder of two wins over Little Chute, but seemingly unable to do much with Appleton this year, will invade Interlake park. Lefty Kranzusch probably will open, the game for Appleton with Van Stratten or Kellerman possible DePere starting hurlers. DePere and Green Bay will play off a postponed game Sunday morning at the Bay that will temporarily decide fourth place.

STIELY GIVES TWO HITS, MILWAUKEE HUMBLES INDIANS

Mill Recruit Allows 4 Hits but Three Are Homers; Birds Win

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—(AP)— If Fred Stiely, Milwaukee southpaw, ever attains a reasonable degree of consistency, he probably will do his pitching for the St. Louis Browns, which owns the Brewers.

Stiely last night had one of his good streaks and let Indianapolis down with two hits, for an 8 to 1 victory. In a recent start against Minneapolis, he did the same thing. He has given other good performances, but they have been interspersed with not such good ones. He has been batted from the box six times since the Browns sent him back to Milwaukee this last time.

The victory did the Brewers no particular good, but the defeat dragged Indianapolis down to a tie for second place with Columbus.

The Red Birds out-homered Minneapolis to win a 2 to 1 decision and ruin a fine pitching job by Young Carl Wilson, Miller recruit. Wilson permitted only four hits, but two were homers by Pat Crawford, his nineteenth of the season, and one by Evar Swanson. Minneapolis' run was the result of a circuit drive by Frank McGowan. The Millers made eight hits, but couldn't bunch them off Mike Cvengros, who recently was traded by Indianapolis to Columbus.

Saints Take Fourth

The onrushing St. Paul apostles handed Toledo another poke on the chin, taking the fourth game of the series, 14 to 3. John Murphy was hit hard by the Mud Hens, giving up 13 hits, but led the Saint attack with four singles. His mates made and bunched 12 other hits, including a homer and a brace of singles by Cedric Durst.

Kansas City gained the edge in its series with Louisville by walloping out 18 hits for an 8 to 3 victory. The Blues' two Petes, Donohue and Monohan, did the good work. Donohue pitched well until the eighth when Holley relieved him, and had time enough to punch out a double and a pair of singles. Monohan kicked in with three singles.

THREE WIGHTMAN CUP MATCHES TO YANKEES

Forest Hills, N. Y.—(AP) — Four more matches remained on the Wightman cup program at the West Side stadium today but America's women tennis stars, led by Helen Wills Moody, already virtually had clinched the sup.

America made a clean sweep of the first three singles matches yesterday and needed only one more victory to regain the trophy won by Great Britain last year. The victory was expected by most observers to come either from Mrs. Moody or Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal.

Mrs. Moody started the American team off on the right foot by defeating Phyllis Mudford, young English star, in 36 minutes, 6-1, 6-4. Miss Jacobs made the count 2-0 by conquering Betty Nuthall, ace of the invading squad, 8-5, 6-4, while Mrs. Anna McCune Harper of Oakland, Calif., outlasted Dorothy Round, another young Briton, 6-3, 4-6, 9-7.

CALIFORNIA STARS IN PUBLIC FINALS

St. Paul, Minn. —(AP)—California had a big golf argument to settle with shots over the Keller club course today.

Two of its star players, Joe Nichols, 15-year-old high school sophomore from Long Beach, and Charlie Ferrara of San Francisco, were the only survivors in the final 36-hole round of the National Public links golf championship and faced each other for the title.

The all-California final assured the trophy, emblematic of public fee course supremacy in America, its first trip to the Pacific coast. Heretofore, it has been in possession of eastern players except the one time that Lester Belstad took it to Minneapolis.

With two men out and two strikes on the batter, Ray Crane of the Atlas softball team last night uncorked a wild pitch over the screen back of home plate and the American Legion beat the Mill club, 4 and 3. The incident happened in the tenth frame and permitted McGee to score for the vets.

Previous to the wild heave Crane and Bob Connelly, the latter hurling for the Legion, had staged a nip and tuck battle with honors about even. Each scored a run in the first inning and then the Legion went ahead with a two run splurge 'n the third. The Mills picked up a score in the fourth and again in the ninth to tie the count at 3 all. The game then went into the tenth inning with Crane's wild heave deciding it.

Monday the National leaguers start playing postponed games. The first two will be Wire Works vs. Co. D., at Wilson school and Wires vs. Printers at Pierce park.

NEXT SUNDAY'S GAMES
Oshkosh at Menasha.

A double defeat of the New London team in its kittenball game in the Valley league Sunday with Kimberly leaves only Menasha as a serious contender of the South Side Business Men's team for first place honors.

Menasha took an easy game Sunday when the Kaukauna club, in last place, forfeited.

The two leaders come together Sunday at Menasha when Oshkosh plays there. Menasha will probably make bids then and there to cut down the leaders if possible.

Appleton's Service Bakery team will play a double header with Kimberly at McKinley school diamond. The first game will begin at 9:30. The extra game is a postponed fracas which resulted when a rain storm washed out a game.

GABBY STREET TO AGAIN LEAD CARDS

Announcement of Another One Year Contract Made Yesterday

St. Louis—(AP)—The "Old Sergeant," Charles E. (Gabby) Street, who came to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1929 with the title of second catch but in reality "chaperon" of Grover Cleveland Alexander, has won for himself a more or less permanent job as manager of a ball team in the past for the uncertain tenure of its managers.

Gabby will lead the Cardinals again next year, his third at the helm of the National league champions.

In announcing last night that Street has signed a one-year contract "and both of us are perfectly satisfied with the terms," President Sam Breadon said the manager's "judgment, ability and courage have been proved day after day and week after week" since 1929. Breadon said the Cardinals' 8-game lead over the second-place Cubs did not influence his decision to reappoint Street.

Street became chief aid to Bill McKechnie before the 1929 pennant race ended, and moved up to the managership when McKechnie went to the Boston Braves.

Breadon's announcement came somewhat as a surprise, since only Thursday he said "I have nothing to say now" regarding his 1932 manager.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Burleigh Grimes, Cardinals—Blanked Cubs, 8-0, with seven hits.

Billy Urbanski, Braves—Doubled with bases filled in ninth to drive in tying and winning runs against Robins.

Pie Traynor, Pirates—Collected double and three singles off Red pitching.

Urban Faber, White Sox—Limited Browns to five scattered singles to win, 2-0.

Chuck Klein, Phillies—Drove in four runs against Giants with twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth home runs and a single.

WETTENGEL'S BEAT HAWKS IN 2 GAMES

Eddie Wettengel's softball team won a double header ball game Friday from the Hawks, another Appleton team. The score in one game was 8 and 3 and in the other 11 and 10. The Wettengel's led all the way in the first game but staged a five run rally in the eighth to win the second.

APPLETON ALL-STARS TO SHOW AT OSHKOSH

Tommy Ryan's All Stars will invade Oshkosh Sunday morning for a game with the Fluors on the latter's diamond, the fracas will start at 10 o'clock with Crane or Gresenz tossing for the Appleton team. Fauk probably will hurl for the Fluors. He pitched the team to a win a week ago at Brandt park, Appleton.

MOTOR BOAT RACES WILL BE FEATURE OF WATER CARNIVAL

Fourth Annual Show Being Held at Fremont Saturday and Sunday

Fremont—The fourth annual water carnival will be staged this evening and Sunday at Fremont under auspices of the Fremont chamber of commerce.

Motor boat races, stunt flying in a water glider, airplaning, swimming and boat races, and surf board riding will emphasize the contrast of the present era with Wisconsin 50 years ago when the buzz of sawmills echoed through the clearings on the pine-clad banks of the Wolf river from Shawano to Oshkosh.

Log rolling by two oldtime rivermen of Oshkosh, Harry Whymouth and Arnold Williams, will recall the heyday of the log-carrying river and will decide the burling championship for another year. Charles Morin, local oldtime riverman, engaged a Menominee Indian in a thrilling contest last year and remains as a retired undefeated champion hurler. Albert Averill and Sheriff Arthur Steenbock of Waupaca will meet in a log twirling duel also.

A Venetian night, colorful pageant of illuminated decorated boats representing various schemes that will pass down the river in a chain in review will climax this year's acquatic celebration. In previous years Fremont's water carnival has attracted far over 5,000 people.

Donations of merchandise totaling $40 will be given in prizes for local motor boat and swimming races to be held Saturday afternoon, which will inaugurate the water carnival at Fremont. A soft ball game between a New London team and Fremont will be played at the Hilderbrand grounds late Saturday afternoon.

KIMBERLY JUNIORS BEAT APPLETON, 5-4

Defeat Was First of League Season for Oney Johnston Post Entry

Kimberly—The local American Legion Junior team took the league leading Appleton team into camp at the Kimberly ball park Friday afternoon by a 5 to 4 count. The ball game in its self was a fine exhibition by the youngsters from both teams and the small crowd that watched the tussel seemed to appreciate the efforts in a big way. The win for the Kimberly team put it in a tie with the Appleton aggregation for first place in standings. Appleton previously had won three and was undefeated. Kimberly had won three games but had dropped a tough game last week to the Kaukauna entry.

William the lanky Kimberly pitcher, looked like the real thing on the mound for the Kimberly squad and the Appleton boys went up to the plate swinging their bats for exercise as they collected six hits and were held to three up until the seventh inning. The Kimberly boys found Eggert the Appleton pitcher for 10 hits. While Williams was handing the Appleton team goose eggs for the first six innings his team mates collected three runs, one in the second inning, one in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Appleton staged a rally that tied the score in its half the seventh on two singles, two walks and a error by the center fielder. Appleton again scored in the eighth Stripe crossing the rubber with the run that put Appleton in the lead. Kimberly came back strong in the ninth and with the bases loaded Williams drove a terrific drive too hot for Dunsirn the short stop and it went into center field while two Kimberly men scampered home with the winning runs.

Monday afternoon at Brandt park the Appleton junior legion team will battle Kaukauna in another league game.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

The Army and the Navy

A movement has been started by the Naval Academy Graduates Association of New York to sound out its members on their attitude toward a resumption of athletic relations between the Naval Academy and the Military Academy, broken off in 1927 over a question of eligibility.

The graduates association has sent the following questionnaire to its members:

"The Army-Navy football game (should, should not) be played.

"If the game is played, should it be played (A) under intercollegiate rules as to eligibility; (B) under no rules as to eligibility except that the players be in good standing; (C) under compromise rules as offered by Admiral Robinson on Oct. 31, 1925? (Under C the following conditions: (1) Three years eligibility, (2) Four year eligibility, (3) Two games under intercollegiate rules and two games under West Point rules alternately. Collegiate rules and two games under West Point rules alternately.

"D under any other conditions?"

The celebrated break between the two training schools for officers of the country's fighting forces came in December, of 1927, when the Navy sent to the Army a contract for the 1928 game providing that intercollegiate rules of eligibility be applied to the next game.

These intercollegiate rules provide that a man may play only three years of varsity football, whether in a private college, a state university or one of the military academies. The Navy had put such a rule into effect but the Army insisted that so long as a cadet was in good standing he was eligible to play on an Army team for his last three years regardless of whether he had played college football.

I See By The Papers

That Orville O'Neil who ran away with all distance honors in valley track probably will enroll at Wisconsin this fall. He never lost a cross country or a track race and was state champion in several events.

That Brute Trafton again will play with the Chicago Bears, and Bill Senn, Nagurski, Garland and Red Grange and Joe Savoldi.

That R. Lindwall, Manitowoc, and C. G. Atendroth, Sheboygan, valley sports coaches are taking summer school courses.

That Manitowoc gridders will wear white jerseys this fall with black helmets. The jerseys will have carmel stripes on the arms and a red "M." The Shipbuilder grid squad looks pretty good.

That Billy Hundertmark was arrested at Green Bay the other day for being drunk and disorderly.

That the state fight commission has decided amateur bouts can be held all year round. Formerly there was a ban on the simon pure sport during the summer months.

Calling the Strikes

New York — (CPA) — When Toporcer was sold by the Jersey City club to the Rochester club of the International league there was a yowl of distress from Baltimore, Newark and Montreal. "We thought Toporcer couldn't play with Rochester," they protested. He is playing with Rochester and now Joe Heving, pitcher, goes from the Giants to Rochester—and the Rochester club is climbing like young Mr. Excelsior in the poem about the mountain pass.

No one blames Rochester for wanting to win another pennant in the International league. "But what," says one of the International league owners, "can we do against the St. Louis chain?" A championship team in St. Louis, maybe one coming in Rochester, maybe one in Houston, one of these days one in Columbus, and Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon eating at banuets all around the map, and maybe next in Japan, the Philippine Island and Snoquomish, Wash."

BURLEIGH GRIMES SHUTS OUT BRUINS BY 8 AND 0 SCORE

Chuch Klein Bat Star as Phillies Wallop New York Giants

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR
Associated Press Sports Writer

ONE of the great contrasts in baseball is found in the first and seventh place teams of the National league, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Phillies. For a couple of years the Phils have been considered as a great team except for its pitching staff while the Cards have put mound work a bit above the other departments of play.

This year, a less lively ball was expected to bring some sort of a change in the results, but the Phils continue to belt the ball at a great rate without getting anywhere in the standing while the Cardinal hurlers have put St. Louis far ahead.

It took a great exhibition of hitting by Chuck Klein, star slugger of the Phils, and a dismal pitching display by Clarence Mitchell to give Philadelphia a 13 to 5 victory over the New York Giants yesterday. Meanwhile the Cards, with about the same amount of hitting, coasted through to an easy 8 to 0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, behind the expert mound work of Burleigh Grimes.

Get 5 Runs in First

Mitchell handed the Phillies four walks and three hits in the first inning to give them a five run start. Later Klein clouted his twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth home runs of the season to drive in four more counters. and Philadelphia needed most of these runs as Phil Collins gave the Giants 16 hits. Grimes, on the other hand, blanked Chicago with only seven hits and the Cardinals bunched seven safeties off Pat Malone in the first three innings to score as many runs.

Grimes's victory, his fourteenth of the season, put the Cards eight games ahead of the second place Cubs and nine up on the Giants.

Brooklyn got some great pitching from Hollis Thurston for eight innings but it didn't last through the ninth and they lost a 3 to 2 decision to the Boston Braves. Thurston gave only three hits in eight frames then yielded two more and the first Boston run in the ninth. Jack Quinn replaced him and allowed Billy Urbanski to double with the bases full.

Pittsburgh's Pirates settled the fourth National league clash in short order when they fell on Red Lucas and Owen Carroll of Cincinnati for seven runs in the first inning and went on to trounce the Reds 9 to 3. Five of the eight first-inning hits were doubles.

Chi Sox Beat Browns

The Chicago White Sox, with Urban Faber on the mound, chalked up their ninth victory in 14 games with the St. Louis Browns by pulling a 2 to 0 victory out of a tight pitching duel. Each team made only five hits but the 43-year-old Faber pitched so expertly that he never was in danger while he helped his own game along with a double in the third inning that led to the second Chicago run.

The other American league teams had an open date.

MARV FERRELL LOSES TEXAS LEAGUE DEBUT

Wichita Falls, Texas —(AP)— Marvin Ferrell, young brother of Wes and Rick Ferrell of American league fame, made his initial bow as a Texas league hurler here yesterday.

Sent to the mound by Wichita Falls, Ferrell showed a fine curve ball, but was troubled by wildness. He lost the game to Beaumont 8 to 6.

TRADE ON STOCK MART REACHES NEW LOW LEVEL

August Inertia Grips Securities—German Issues Lead Bonds

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

New York —(AP)— August inertia gripped the securities markets today.

Trading in stocks was around the lowest levels in several years, and save for a further sag in the railroad issues, price changes were largely negligible. In bonds, the German issues again maintained a good tone, and in commodities, the more bullish attitude toward wheat was again apparent.

Such stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, eGneral Motors, Radio and Consolidated Gas closed virtually unchanged from Friday's final prices.

In the rails, however, Atchison lost 4 points, and New York Central declined 2, going below 70 for the first time in 10 years. Union Pacific lost as much, and declines of a point or so appeared in Southern Pacific, New Haven, Great Northern preferred, Frisco, and Wabash. Although utilities were generally steady, Electric Power and Light lost a point.

Again, there were no new developments in the railroad situation, but statistics continue to reflect the unsatisfactory conditions with which they are struggling. "Railway Age" reported that new freight cars ordered by the roads for July were only 443, compared to 972 in Jun , and 1,306 in July of last year. During the first seven months of the year, only 6,419 new freight cars were ordered, as against 31,749 in the like period of 1930.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported a little more activity in wholesale buying in preparation for fall trade, and stressed continued activity in the woolen and leather trades, although there has been a little reaction in the hie markets.

The monthly sales report of General Motors, issued at the close of the market, were again relatively favorable. Sales of General Motors cars to customers for the month, at 85,054, showed an actual gain over July of last year. when the total was 80,147, although there was a marked seasonal sag from June.

Weekend reports from the steel trade show little change, although it is estimated that activity in the Youngstown area, now around 33 per cent of capacity, may show slight improvement next week.

In international finance, attention is now converged upon the Prussian prebiscite tomorrow, which is expected to give a measure of the strength of the Bruening government in Germany.

In the meantime, the relaxing of German restrictions on imports, and the orderly reopening of the savings banks, despite large withdrawals, were reassuring developments.

In foreign exchanges, sterling still failed to show recuperative power. At $4.85 5-16 the cable rate was off 1-16 from yesterday, and below the gold point. Other European currencies were generally steady to firm. In the Latin Americans, the Argentine peso showed a better tone.

The cotton market sold up about a dollar a bale, then relinquished most of its gain.

5,000 FRESH HOGS ARRIVE ON MARKET

3,000 Shipped to Packers on Direct Billing—Prices Are Steady

Chicago—(AP)—Only 5,000 fresh arrivals of hogs were reported today and of these 3,000 went to packers on direct billing and a similar number of stale hogs were carried over unsold from Friday. Shippers had orders for a few cars of light hogs and were able to pick up 170-220 lbs at $7.E5-7.90 on a steady to 10c lower basis.

The cattle market was only a nominal affair today with 400 head of cattle, part of which were billed straight to slaughter houses.

Grassy and short-fed steers closed unevenly steady to 50c lower and late in the week were a drug on the market. Cows and heifers of the pastured type lost mostly 50-75c and bulls fully 50c. Calves recovered part of their earlier losses and now are steady to 50c lower than a week ago.

The entire run of 3,000 sheep estimated for today was offered in the open market. Bulk of the supply consisted of 14 cars of Washington range lambs of good to choice quality and they were firmly held at prices ranging from $7.85, the week's top.

Receipts increased 5,000 head in the local market and shipments during the week, mostly to feeders, also increased 5,000. However, fat lambs closed 25-50c off for the week, the common grades showing the maximum loss. Native lambs bulked at $6.75-7.50 and topped at $7.75.

CORN PRICES SAG TO LOWEST LEVEL IN YEARS

Collapse Results from Rush of Selling After Cotton Break

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(AP)— Corn tumbled late today to the lowest prices reached since 1902. The collapse resulted from a general rush of selling that took place after a big break in the cotton market owing to bearish aspects of the government's cotton crop report. December corn, representing the 1931 crop, plunged down to 39½ cents a bushel, with other corn deliveries as well as wheat, oats and rye suffering sharp setbacks.

Wheat price reactions that followed an early bulge wiped out at least for the time being today's gains. The setback, which left yesterday's advance, untouched, was due largely to selling based on weakness that corn developed as a result of auspicious weather for growth of the new corn crop. Corn prices fell more than 1½ cents from the top point reached at the opening.

Execution of standing orders to sell September corn at 52½ cents and December at 42 started the downward slide of the corn market and indirectly resulted in canceling wheat gains. The weather map showed good rains throughout the greater part of the corn belt, and this circumstance gave an advantage to bears. There were also considerable profit taking in the wheat, the market showing at one stage 3 cents rise compared to yesterday's low point. On the other hand, much enlarged report business in North American wheat overnight was announced, 1,500,000 bushels or more, oats followed corn.

Provisions advanced despite lower quotations on hog.

TRADING DULL ON N. Y. BOND MARKET

New York—(AP)—Dull trading was the principal feature of the bond market today. Prices, to be sure were irregular, but the volume was so limited that any fluctuating tendencies had little opportunity to assert themselves. No sales of any sort were reported for a large number of issues and the total turnover in many others consisted of single minimum transactions. Short sessions in midsummer are often dull.

A French scientist claims the mysterious thunder we sometimes hear in clear weather comes from sun spots.

Its largest plant is a steam generated plant. It also owns a steam heating plant and controls over 9,000 acres of coal lands in Missouri. The company is controlled through stock ownership by the Continental Gas and Electric Corporation which in turn is controlled by United Light and Railways Company of Delaware, which again is controlled by the United Power and Light Company of Maryland.

Grain Notes

Chicago—(AP)—It was the opinion of most traders at the close yesterday that grain prices have dropped so low that a change was due and that the unexpected sharp advances of the day were the beginning of better markets. Commission houses in particular took this view of the situation and as a rule favored buying on all weak spots. Professionals in the wheat pit, while favoring an advance, said that the unexpected upturn of around 2½ cents had driven in all the pit shorts. In case of weakness in foreign markets there was an inclination to expect a recession in prices in North America.

Australia's visible supply now is 20,000,000 bushels compared to 24,000,000 bushels last week and 31,750,000 bushels last year, according to Broomhall. Supplies are rapidly disappearing and local millers' stocks seem light. The Orient is inquiring daily.

Nebraska farmers are not disposed to sell wheat at prevailing low prices. One Omaha house, whose bids on Thursday night were ¼ cent above all the others, bought only 1,000 bushels, and that was from Missouri.

New York — July cash dividend payments made by domestic corporations totaled $516,095,367, a substantial increase over the June figures of $412,327,778, Standard Statistics Co., reports. Electric light and gas companies made payments of more than $85,000,000. banks and telephone and telegraph companies more than $53,000,000, and railroads more than $46,000,000.

Carnegie Steel Co., has resumed activities at the Edgar Thompson plant, which has been since July 24. Workers affected number 3,500.

General Motors Truck Co., has received an order from U. S. government for 67 trucks.

Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., operations during the second quarter were on a profitable basis, reflecting improvement in sales, W. H. Lalley, president, said. June quarter sales were 20.1 per cent of the like period last year. Mr. Lalley added that operations now are on an economical and profitable basis, and figures for July and so far in August indicate the improvement is continuing.
